SHANGHAI DECADES AGO

Reminiscences Of An Old Resident At Landing

"It is fifty-nine years since I first landed in Shanghai, coming by the then old British transport H.M.S. Adventure writes 'old China Hand' in the 'North-China Daily News'. Our trip was round the Cape, then on to Australia and up to Hong Kong. After refitting we came to Shanghai, where we spent a week or so; then to Nagasaki, where we witnessed the results of the Saigo war. The Imperial army fought with modern arms, while the other used Japanese swords. The way the wounded soldiers returned to hospital, out up by the swords was awful to see.

Next we went to Yokohama and embarked the Battalion of Marines which had been stationed there as a Legation guard for years. There were also a French Marine Battalion stationed there. Both left their barracks at the same moment, the French marched to the so-called French 'hatoba', the British to the British 'hatoba'. The officers of each nation met between the two piers shook hands and saluted, then returned to their men and embarked in the boats waiting for them. A French mail ship took their men to Saigon, while ours were taken to Durban to do a bit of fighting in South Africa before returning to England. The Kaffirs were commencing to give trouble at this time.

In 1899 the writer was once more back in China, coming by the P. & O. s.s. Travancore. Shanghai settlement was not a large place then, rickshaws were not known, the sedan chair was the mode of transport. In Nanking Road, about half way out to be Racecourse, there used to be a yamen of some kind, in which prisoners were kept in wooden cages. Any foreigner passing there would be executed and spat at. A walk to the Bubbling Well was quite a pilgrimage.

THE OPENING OF ICHANG

The writer did not stay long in Shanghai, but went up river to join the gunboat 'Kestrel' stationed at Hankow. After a short while we started for Ichang, in order to attend at the opening of that port to trade. Our ship, however, never reached Ichang. We stuck on every sandbank in the river I think. We were not able to obtain a pilot at Hankow, owing to official opposition, so had to go without. We were three months on the trip, got to within twenty or so miles of Ichang when the U. S. S. Monocacy came along. Our captain with a consular official were taken on board the writer going as secretary, we arrived in time for the opening day. Our ship was close on three months on this voyage, which takes about six days for the return journey now.

A laughable incident occurred during this trip. The writer was then studying Chinese, or to be correct—Cantonese. It was decided to give the crew some fresh beef, so he was ordered to go on shore and buy a cow. An animal was selected and brought to the bank.

It was the custom in such cases that representatives of the officers, the sailors and the marines should satisfy themselves by personal inspection of the animal before it could be slaughtered. So the sergeant of marines, a quarter-master and an officer were landed for this purpose. The officer looked at the cow, and said he thought it would do, then asked the sergeant to look at it. The sergeant felt it and agreed that it was all right, then the officer turned to quarter-master and told him to give his opinion. The quarter-master looked at the cow and was about to reply when the officer said "examine it, quarter-master," upon which he leaned down and felt its shins. The officer getting incensed asked, "What are you feeling that part for?" to which the man answered, "That's the part we get, Sir."

AN HISTORIC EVENT

The day before our ship left Portsmouth we witnessed the sailing out of the harbour of the old line of battle ship, 'Victor Emanuel', for China. This I believe was the last of the old "wooden walls" that sailed out of an English harbour. Again we saw her sailing in to Simons Bay, Cape of Good Hope. It is one of the sights that remain in my memory, seeing her come in to harbour under full sail, furl her sail and drop her anchor, with the precision in all her actions that obtained in the navy then. In the Cape harbour was also another queer ship, called the 'Active'. This vessel was carrying a party of observers for 'Kerguelen Island', to take observations of the transit of Venus across the sun. It was when steam was being adopted by the navy. Many captains disliked the use of funnels because it dirtied the sails so much. Some one brought out a method whereby the smoke was returned through the funnels, the funnel in the ship was done away with, the mainmast giving the necessary draught. The 'Active' was fitted with this arrangement. It could not have been a success, because no other vessel was so constructed. Two young ordinary seamen, just made men on the voyage out, were looking at the vessel, smoking one of their first pipes. One remarked to the other "that is a... fine ship, she confuses her own smoke."

Our ship towed the old 'Vic' as she was called out to sea in order to give her an offing. We parted, she for China, we for Australia. Next time we met was in Hong Kong harbour where she was being dismantled, to replace the old 'Princess Charlotte', also a wooden wall, as receiving ship. After many years of this service she was sold out and went to Whampoa to be broken up. Many a junk was built out of her old oak timber.

TRAVELLING IN OLD DAYS

Lady's Lucky Escape at Pukow

Tenghsien, Sung, Jan. 1.
Now that the railway ferry is completed at Pukow and the trains cross the river without danger to the passengers, we are reminded of a narrow escape one of our Tenghsien ladies, foreign, had in the old days when steam ferries were used, writes the 'North-China Daily News'. There were two of these—one a large steam ferry that carried the passengers, large and ample—the other was a barge tugged by a small steam launch. For various reasons, at times the steam ferry was not in use and to land from the barge at the Pukow wharf was a difficult proposition.

Coolies and baggage took up the space and coolies rushing on and off made a landing most unpleasant and not free from danger except for the agile. At one of these times the lady mentioned above was delayed and just as her husband had caught her hand to help her up from the barge to the wharf, a distance of several feet, the barge was forced away by the swiftness of the current and the carelessness of the pilot, so there she was hanging in air held by one hand and no place to catch hold of or rest the foot upon. Just at this juncture two young Chinese students on their way to Peking came quickly to the rescue and saved the situation. Then they rushed off to catch their train and did not even wait for a "Thank you."

This is written for their credit and we hope their eye will see it. The Chinese are often not quick to respond to a need but these came without any one asking them and it has been laid up as a memorial and a testimony for them, a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

Tenghsien is feeling very elated over being on the new 'National Geographic' map. The 'National Geographic' as most of your readers know is a monthly published in New York City dealing with all countries and places and publishes maps that are most carefully reviewed and accurately corrected.

The latest is one of Asia embracing many new features and the compiler placed Tenghsien upon it. The annuals of Tenghsien county are kept up-to-date and printed in clear large type. One recently printed gives a census of the county are kept up-to-date and printed in clear large type. One recently printed gives a census of the county and officially reports nearly one-half million inhabitants and what has surprised every one, there are about 20,000 more men than women, 18,117 to be exact.

Why this should be we know not. There is a certain amount of infanticide of girls practiced but not a great deal.

Many men leave as soldiers or looking for work, but rarely any women leave. The census does not include soldiers, not native to the county. The Chinese have no law which legally frees a wife from her husband should he remain absent a number of years. In China should a husband remain away for a score of years he has a legal right to demand his wife on his return.

Sweets from Shanghai are being sold on the street here by an enterprising merchant, and while sales are not very big at present more is being ordered.

STERILIZATION IN GERMANY

Roman Catholic Protests

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Dec. 27.
Undeterred by the protests which have been raised in many quarters—and voiced in the Vatican—the German Government is preparing a sterilisation campaign on a tremendous scale.

More than 400,000 persons—divided almost equally between the sexes—will, when the New Year begins, run the risk of being forcibly deprived of any possibility of parenthood.

I have the best reasons for asserting that the Vatican is not prepared to do more than agree to the sterilisation of hardened criminals as a punishment—but in no other case whatever. This, however, is proposed under a different law.

The present regulations will meet with strong passive opposition in the Roman Catholic parts of Germany.

No Roman Catholic doctor, nurse, public official, or other person will take part in applying them. If attempts are made to break this boycott, the friction already existing will be increased to a point at which diplomatic mediation may be of little avail.

Disease Court

Whether the law will be tacitly dropped in Bavaria and the Rhineland the strongly Roman Catholic province, remains to be seen. Matters may be brought to the breaking point if, for example, the Roman Catholic doctors, officials, or hospitals, are punished for refusing to act contrary to the doctrines of the Church.

Some 1,700 "hereditary disease courts," and twenty-seven special courts of appeal will be set up for the purpose of authorising the operations for sterilisation, or giving a decision in doubtful cases. The number of persons affected and the diseases are as follows:

Hereditary weak-mindedness, 200,000 persons.
Three other forms of mental disease, 160,000.
St. Vitus's dance, 600.
Hereditary blindness, 4,000.
Hereditary deafness, 16,000.
Severe physical deformity, 20,000.
Hereditary alcoholism, 10,000.

The cost of performing the 400,000 operations required is expected to amount to about £270,000 in the case of males and £260,000 for the operations on women.

MR. COLIN CLIVE

U.S. Equity Waives Rule

New York—An important rule of the Actors' Equity Association has been broken to allow Mr. Colin Clive to appear in a forthcoming production in New York of 'The Lake'—the play by the late Dorothy Massingham and Murray Macdonald which had a successful run in London.

Mr. Clive has been playing in a play in New York called 'Eight Bells'. In the ordinary way Equity rules would prohibit him from appearing in another play in New York for at least six months.

This rule has been suspended especially for him, because it has been proved to the president of Equity that "the employment of Mr. Clive would benefit the employment of 25 or 26 American actors."—Reuter.

JAPAN-FORMOSA AIR MAIL PLANNED

Formosan Government Bill Introduced

Taihoku, Formosa, Jan. 11.
A bill providing for the establishment of a regular passenger and mail air service between Formosa and Japan has been drafted by the Formosan Government. It was officially announced here today.

The cost for starting the service is estimated in the bill at ¥180,000. Of this amount, ¥110,000 will be used for enlarging and modernising the aerodrome at Taihoku and the remaining ¥70,000 for the construction of new aeroplanes.

The proposed measure, which will be submitted at the forthcoming session of the Japanese Diet, suggests that preparatory flights be started during July this year and that the regular service be inaugurated during the early part of 1935.—United Press.

"H.B." BEER

"Let ministers shape the duty on cape
And ordain that port shall be dear,
But damn their eyes if they ever tries
To rob the poor man of his beer.
For I like a drop of good beer, I does,
I be mortally fond of beer, I is;
Then loudly sing, live Billy the King.
For he 'bated the tax upon beer."

(OLD SONG)

Billy the King, William the fourth, hated drunkards, but he hated water, drinkers no less. When King Leopold was dining with him, he exclaimed, "What is that you are drinking, Sir?" "Water, Sir." God damn it! why, don't you drink wine? I never allow anyone to drink water at my table.

SECRET DASH OF HUSBAND

Greta Nissen Not To Separate

Another Hollywood separation rumour has gone the way of all rumour.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Heyburn (Greta Nissen) have been busy discussing the imminence of a marital rift for months past.
Colour seemed to be lent to the story when Miss Nissen, one of Hollywood's better-known blondes, accepted the offer of a part at Elstree and left America.

She left so suddenly that she omitted to comply with the necessary formalities for entering this country and was detained by the immigration authorities for some hours at Southampton.

The rumour, in fact, would still be spreading gaily if it had not been for Mr. Heyburn, who is a young actor with a future.

He decided to act.

He arrived unheralded in this country on Saturday. Not even his wife knew that he had sailed from New York. He just walked in on her.

I found them looking remarkably happy in their London flat last night. All Mr. Heyburn would say was:—

"We are very glad to be together again. Yes, we are very happy indeed. No we haven't invited any visitors 'just yet.'"

And Miss Nissen echoed: "We are very happy."

HONEYMOON DELAYED

Prince Escapes From Process-Server

San Francisco, Jan. 8.
A process-server has interfered with the plans of Prince and Princess Alexis Mdivani for a belated honeymoon tour of the Orient.

Frances Butten, and the second wealthiest girl in America, arrived here to-day in a special honeymoon car, but without her groom. Discreet investigation revealed that Prince Alexis, one of the marrying Mdivani brothers, had fled from the train at Reno and taken an aéroplane to Portland, via Salt Lake City, en route for Seattle whence he will sail to re-join his wife, probably at Honolulu.

It is understood that the Prince made his sudden flight when he learned that a process-server was after him with a summons to appear in court at Los Angeles as a witness in connection with the oil operations of his two brothers, Prince David and Prince Serge Mdivani, who were indicated last month by a grand jury on several counts in connection with the sale of oil stocks in California.

Prince and Princess Alexis Mdi-vani had planned to sail on Thursday, on the N.Y.K. m.v. Tatsuta Maru for Shanghai on what they termed a belated honeymoon tour of the Orient and the rest of the world. Married last November, they have been too busy in the swirl of New York social life to find time before now for a trip abroad.

The Princess, whose birthday last November 15 brought her into possession of one-third of the fortune amassed by her grandfather, Mr.
F. W. Woolworth, five and ten cent store magnate, indicated that she is leaving for the Orient as soon as she can make connections which will enable her to meet her husband. She refused to divulge whether or not she had cancelled her bookings on the Tatsuta Maru.

"Supernatural"

"Supernatural" the film at the Central Theatre exposes the tricks of psychic fakers. Carole Lombard is the central figure in the story. As a beautiful heiress grieving over the death of her twin brother, she is an easy prey for a fake spiritualist who has more interest in her money than her dead brother. The other members of the cast are Vivienne Osborne, Randolph Scott, Allan Dinchart, H. B. Warner and William Farnum are in the principal roles.

"Henry The VIII"

"The Private Life Of Henry The Eighth" England's much married monarch will be shown to Hong Kong audiences sometime next month. Charles Laughton has been cast in the leading role in this tragedy-comedy which puts the comedy first and rides rough-shod over history. It has been splendidly produced, and most entertaining. Special mention was made of the wonderful make-up of Laughton being an exact copy from the Castle Howard Holbein portrait which shows the monarch with a grey beard. Miss Wendy has been cast as Jane Seymour, the monarch's third wife. Miss Merle Oberon is the screen Anne Boleyn, second wife. Miss Binnie Barnes is the fifth, Miss Everley Gregg plays the sixth wife, Miss Elsa Lanchester (Mrs. Chas. Laughton in private life) is the fourth. London turned out in full force to see this production when it was shown at the Leicester Theatre.

JEAN HARLOW

Jean Harlow is married again, and is now known as Mrs. Harold G. Ross, a cameraman. She was born in Kansas City, Missouri March the 3rd 1911; she is five feet three and a half inches tall, weighs 112 lbs, has blue eyes. She had no stage experience.

"FACING THE MUSIC"

"LITTLE WOMEN" SETS MUSIC HALL RECORD

To be Shown at the King's Theatre Next Month

RKO's "Little Women," starring Katherine Hepburn, and from which the company is anticipating great things, started its career exhibition recently by establishing a new record at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

The first four days saw more than 100,000 people battling their way in to see the picturization of Louisa May Alcott's classic. The gross for the first four days was $73,188, and for the last six days, $103,004. RKO officials said they expect the full week showing of "Little Women" to surpass all Music Hall attendance and box office records since the opening of the theatre, eleven months ago. It is estimated that the gross for the entire week will be in excess of $120,000, while over 100,000 people are expected to have visited the theatre during the first week.

Following is a day-by-day record of attendance and receipts:

	Attendance	Gross
Thursday	23,073	$15,650
Friday	23,033	15,750
Saturday	28,354	21,202

Sunday	22,915	20,584
Monday	21,561	14,303
Tuesday	23,148	15,515

Total...$142,084 $103,004
Unusual was the complete unanimity of favorable opinion expressed by New York's newspaper critics. Saturday and Sunday thousands of children witnessed the story of Victorian girlhood. Sunday the theatre's doors were opened shortly before noon and by one o'clock all of the theatre's 6,200 seats were filled. Crowds were waiting to enter even when the overworked box offices were closed shortly before ten in the evening.

The theatre stopped selling tickets each day at the peak of the matinee and evening rush. On Saturday the box office was closed four times and at 1 p.m. 3,000 people waited in the street, with 1,000 "standees" in the lobby. Thirty mounted policemen were called to keep crowds in order. The police department officially reported that those on duty had never seen "such an orderly riot."

News Snapshots

"Mae West's fame has enabled her sister, Bererley West, to emerge from retirement and star in American vaudeville on the strength of her relationship to the heroine of "She Done Him Wrong." The West sisters were on the stage together in 1918.

Marlene Dietrich's daughter Maria Sieber, is playing her first film part in her mother's Paramount picture, "Scarlet Pageant." She will appear as Catherine the Great (Miss Dietrich's role in its later stages) at the age of seven.

An M.G.M. director and his staff are coming to China to film scenes for "Good Earth," a version of Pearl Buck's well known novel. Many of these Chinese scenes will be played by Chinese artists.

Russ Colombo, celebrated American Crooner, and rival to Bing Crosby, will croon to Constance Bennett in her new Twentieth Century picture "Moulin Rouge."

Emil Jannings is making a film in Vienna.

Doris Kenyon has commenced divorce proceedings in Hollywood against Arthur Hopkins, whom she married last June.

Janet Gaynor is to be supported by Lionel Barrymore and Robert Young in her Fox Film "House Of Connely."

FARNUM BACK

William Farnum, romantic star of early movies is back again. He has been in retirement since 1925 when he sustained an injury. Farnum spent seven years on the New York stage before going into the movies. He makes his comeback performance in "Supernatural" the Paramount film.

FLICKERS FROM HOLLYWOOD

Mrs. Evelyn Oakie, mother of Jack Oakie, has a part in the Paramount film, "Too Much Harmony." Call Patrick new Paramount player, has received through the post, a toothbrush engraved with her initials in gold.

Ricardo Cortez will play the part of a broker in Paramount's Big Executive, most convincingly because he once was a broker.

DeMille has chartered a liner, the City of San Francisco, for sequences in his next film, "Four Frightened People."

Mae West's dressing room at the Paramount Studios is finished in pale grey with hangings of dull apricot stain.

Lilyan Fashman featured in Paramount's "Too Much Harmony," was in Ziegfeld Follies for two years.

Mary Boland, in Paramount's "Mama Loves Papa" was convinced she was a dramatic actress until a break made her one of the leading comedienne.

John Miljan who appeared in Chevalier's first film, "Innocents Of Paris," is re-united with the Paramount star "The Way To Love."

Elizabeth Young, appearing in Paramount's "Big Executive," walks two miles every day just for exercise! She started the habit several years ago in New York.

A GALAZY OF FASHION

The most fashionable function in Hollywood for years has, certainly been the premiere at the famous Grauman Chinese Theatre of Mae West's "I'm No Angel." All the stars attended and all wore the latest creations.

Marlene Dietrich caused a long wave of "Oh's" when she stepped from her car in a long wrap which was a lovely affair with a cape from the waist down. She wore a black crepe from the waist down. She wore a black velvet tam, and over the gloved fourth finger of each hand carried two startling rings, on a solitaire, the other a star sapphire.

Mae West, herself, reigned during her triumph in a gown and short jacket of silver lace massed with tiny crystal beads. The sleeves of the jacket were three bands of white fox and a large muff of the same fur accompanied the costume. And of course it included one of those yard-long trains!

Carole Lombard, who is to be seen in "White Woman" wore a knee-length coat and a gown of star-sapphire beads. Not another piece of adornment was displayed.

Dorothea Wieck, whose first starring picture for Paramount is "Cradle Song," caused much attention because the premiere was her first appearance at a large public function. She was simply and cleverly gowned in a frock of ivory satin with large sleeves of black velvet. Her wrap, also in black velvet, fastened with several enormous buttons of brilliants.

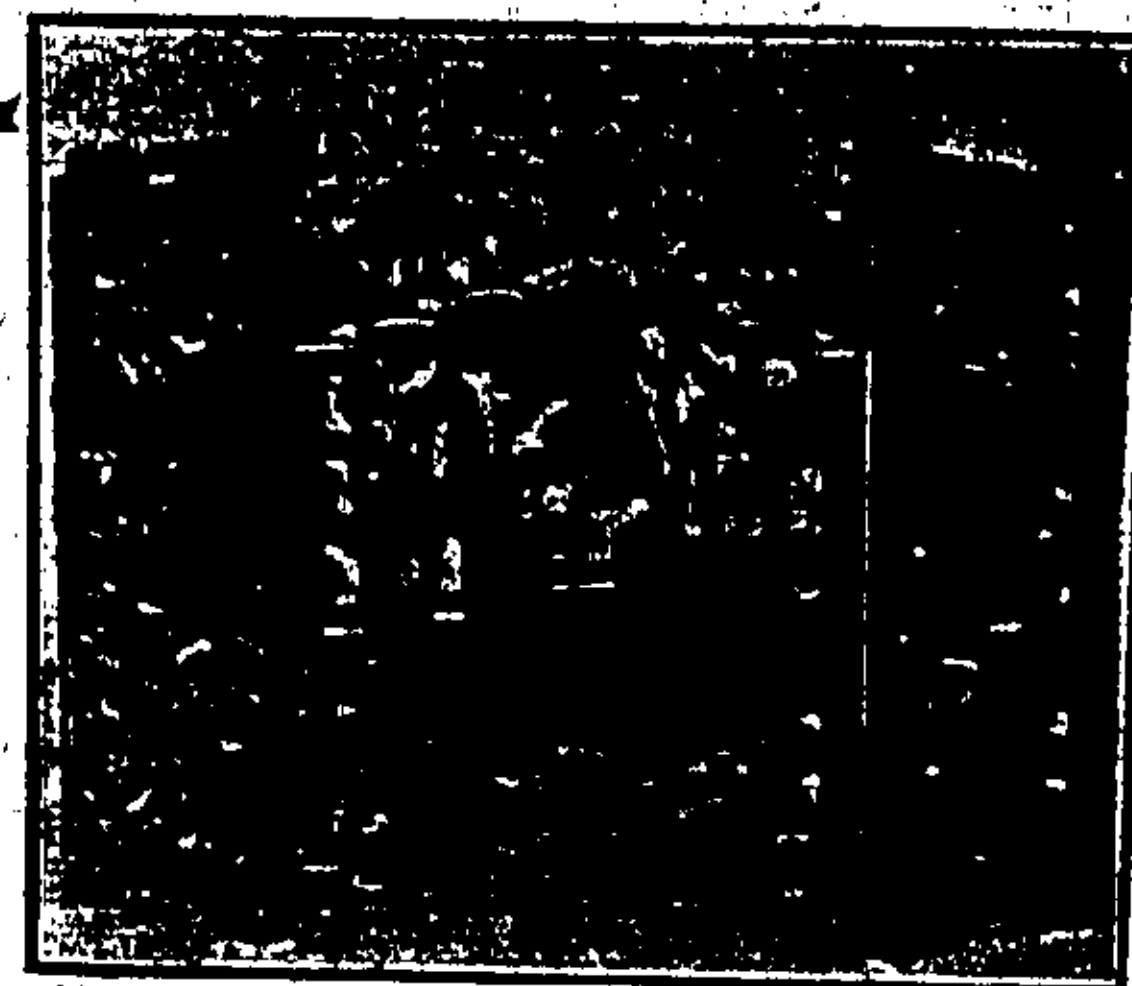

Two of the younger Paramount players were there too. Judith Allen combined a gown of royal purple velvet with a long cape of white velvet. And Toby Wing was probably the most excited young lady in the whole theatre. She wore her first, fur coat—a white ermine one.

FLICKERS FROM HOLLYWOOD

Edward Sutherland, director of Paramount's "Too Much Harmony," was born in London.

Mae West, Paramount sensation, is the daughter of Jack West, famous featherweight boxing champion of the world.

Bing Crosby, starring in Paramount's "Too Much Harmony," has never been out of a job since he left college to work.

Twenty characters from six of the most popular comic strips are to be brought to the screen in Paramount's "Funny Face."

"CYNARA" LEE THEATRE

This is the final showing of the Ronald Colman film "Cynara" which is being shown at the Lee Theatre. In conjunction with this film there is also a Mickey Mouse Cartoon. The troupe of Artists Varah and Lydia will entertain you with their dances. The Magician Sam Bay is also on the same programme.

Sari Maritz, the Paramount star, speaks flawless Chinese.

GOLD MEDAL FILM

First Annual Award Goes to "Henry the Eighth"

GOLD MEDAL FILM

The Council of the Institute of Amateur Cinematographers has decided to originate a gold medal of merit to be awarded annually to the directors of the finest talking picture made in Britain. The first medal awarded is to be given to Alexander Korda, the director of "The Private Life of Henry the Eighth." It will be presented by the Duke of Sutherland, president of the Institute, at the Leicester Square Theatre, London, on Thursday.

THE BARRYMORE KIDS

Jack Barrymore tells one about John and Jenny who went to grandmother's for the holidays. "Evening came, and the dear old grandmother said:

"Now dear, say your prayers at granny's knee, like good little children."
"Ha, ha, the joke's on you, granny," exclaimed the dear little tots, "we don't know any prayers!"

ON CLARK GABLE

"Hey Clark," hailed one of those officious acquaintances, "what was the matter with the old bus? What'd you want to go buy a new one for?"

"Well, you see," smiled Mr. Gable, with that easy Gable smile, "I went into a salesroom to use the telephone and didn't like to come away without buying something."

"THE BIG CAGE"

At The Oriental TheatreWhen lions and tigers grow silent-look out. They may be plot-ting mischief.In Clyde Beatty's hair-raising circus "act," which has never been duplicated by any other trainer and which has made him the foremost attraction of the tented world, he assembles 43 fabled lions and tigers, and never lets them forget for a moment that he is directing their movements.At one point in the act he does a special trick with one of the tigers, while the rest of the animals sit more or less quietly on their pedestals and watch the performance with wicked eyes.
But midway in the exhibition he forces the tiger to lie down while he turns and lashes the other animals into snarling fury with his croaking whip. Then he completes the trick with the tiger.
This thrilling act is only one of the exciting features of "The Big Cage." One of the most amazing and at the same time acrobatic scenes in the picture is a terrific fight between a lion and a tiger.
There was no intention. In the minds of Beatty, the star, to have

Carole Lombard At CentralFree technical advice from the spirit world went into the making of "Supernatural." Paramount's screen play of a young girl whose body is possessed by the spirit of an avenging murderer. The picture comes to the Central Theatre to-morrow with Carole Lombard, Randolph Scott, and Vivienne Osborne in the leading roles.Occultists, spiritualists, psychics, mystics and members of various other cults took Victor and Edward Halperin, producers of the film, into their eternal arms, inviting them to one seance after another, to give them their own version of how the spirit angle of the picture should be handled.
Most pretentious of all the seances which they attended in search of material was that staged for them at the Windsor Hospital in Pasadena, Cal., by the Julian Sisters, internationally-known mediums, who claim they staged a seance for President McKinley in the White House in 1900. For the benefit of the producers, the mediums brought forth alleged spirits of Thomas H. Ince, Jack Pickford, Theodore Roberts, Nat Goodwin, David Belasco and other late great stage and screen folk.
The brothers, while deeply impressed, were not converted to spiritualism, however."Supernatural" is a sympathetic treatment of spiritualism, and at the same time an expose of the methods used by crooked mediums in duping the public. It centers around Miss Lombard, a young heiress, who, prostrated by the death of a beloved twin brother, is easy prey for Allan Dinehart, an unscrupulous spiritualist, who hopes, through his tricks to acquire part of her fortune. Mean-while, Vivienne Osborne, a psychic personality, betrayed to the police by Dinehart, is executed in the electric chair for murder. H. B.
Warner, a psychologist, attempts an experiment upon her to keep her spirit from carrying out the revenge he is sure it desires. But the experiment goes amiss, and the spirit enters Miss Lombard's body. The picture reaches its climax in events that follow.

UNDER SUSPICION

At The Lee Theatre

The Fox Movietone film "Under Suspicion" is being shown at the Lee Theatre commencing to-morrow and Friday. Miss Lois Moran and J. Harold Murray furnish the romance while J. M. Kerrigan and Marie Saxon assist in the plot.
Others assisting in this great thriller of the outdoors are: Lumsden
Hare, Erwin Connolly, Helene
Millard and several others. The Canadian Mounted Police are seen in their colorful uniforms at a big ball in honour of the ladies who are seen in some gorgeous gowns.
The photography is excellent and shows some of the high spots of

"SAMARANG"

"Samarang" the United Artists picture which commences its run at the King's theatre... is a spectacular romance of the Malaysian pearl-diving country. One sees many strange species of deep sea monsters as well as a variety of land animals seldom seen by folks who make their homes above the equator. The photography is wonderful. The interesting part about the film is that it is not faked, every scene being authentic. We will not attempt to go into every detail, but some of the scenes such as the fight between an octopus and shark is exciting. In another instance we saw a native in a fight with a live boa constrictor which almost endedBattle between the man and the shark in "Samarang"the Malayan life. The terrifying hissing made by the dracuna, and which is heard in "Samarang" would give one the impression that it breathed smoke and fire. The leads are well handled by a young Malayan couple who are excellent.
It is most interesting on the whole,
as it depicts native life as it is lived in the Malayan Provinces.

Gossip Of The Stars

Johnny Weissmuller, famous swimmer and movie "Tarzan," is still enchanted by the irresistible Lupe Velez. With the memory of Gary Cooper fast becoming dim, maybe Lupe will marry Johnny, as is constantly intimated by acquaintances.According to a statement accredited to Marlene Dietrich, she wears trousers not only because they are comfortable, but because she thinks she looks better in them. Is Marlene right or wrong?
At any rate, the fad is sweeping the Pacific Coast and may yet go round the world.And Lillian Harvey, the English girl who has been playing for UFA in Germany, appeared for her first batch of photographs in New York City in complete masculine togs. Maybe they told her in Germany that in America the women wore the trousers.Ann Harding's services are rated high by RKO-Radio. Another company wanted to borrow her and the price asked was seventy-five thousand dollars.

picture is one that should not be

GOLDEN HARVEST

Richard Arlen Coming
To Queen'sThe gentle, pastoral quality of the farm-the mad hysterical activity of the wheat pit.These two contrasting scenes serve as the dramatic background for Paramount's epic romance,
"Golden Harvest," produced by Charles R. Rogers, which opens to-morrow at the Queen's.Richard Arlen and Chester Morris give strong capable performances as brothers, raised on the farm, who separate to go their own ways. Arlen as a radical leader and Morris as a wheat speculator.Julie Hayden is the farm girl and Genevieve Tobin the city girl.
The story is woven by Nina Wilcox Putnam and Casey Robinson far away from any pattern of other farm romances.Here we see the modern farmer, radical and aggressive, breaking the law to save his farm, loving his family and his soil. We see spectacular riots and the fevered excitement of the wheat pit.The farm scenes and the pit scenes are authentic. The former were filmed during a three weeks' location trip to the wheat country near Pendleton, Oregon, and the wheat pit scenes were shot on the floor of the Chicago Board of Trade.As the story starts Morris is returning from a European trip. It has ruined him for the farm. He is about to break off his engagement to Julie Hayden when she tells him she loves Arlen. Morris

ECHOES OF 1859

83—Another "Friendly Tilt" With A Contemporary

Our contemporary improves very little if any by all the lessons we give him. In his last issue we observe several hyperbolic hallucinations, which we cannot allow to pass unnoticed. He says "the Garrison Theatre of Monday last was very poorly attended owing to its being a repetition of a private performance, which was largely attended a few days before."

The most charitable inference we can draw is that our contemporary must have gone to the private performance after dinner and saw double.

In the next place he says that Art. V. of the United States Treaty with China "shows how exceedingly well the American Embassy was treated at Peking." Now considering that Article V. and all the other articles of that treaty were made more than one year before the U.S. Embassy visited Peking, we must say that our contemporary must have so completely fogged his hobby out, as to make it unfit for further service.

He then lauds the Economists to the skies, and extracts some tables from it to prove that although the balance of trade with China is apparently largely against England yet such is not really the case—because the exports from India to China make up the difference. The Treasury shipped hence to India is entirely left out of the question, and what that can possibly have to do with the English trade, we leave our contemporary to explain.

From the following letter he will see that he is impugned in his Latin rudiments—our object for inserting this is to put him right in his overland issue:—

"My Dear Sir.—When I was learning the Latin Grammar I was impressed with the rule that the preposition 'per' governs the ablative and the accusative cases. It is such a long time since, that I am at a loss to know why your contemporary makes it govern the nominative case when he says in his last remarks upon the Coolie Traffic that 'premiums of $20 or $30 per caput' were offered to Chinese brokers."

"Can you enlighten me, Mr. Editor? Perhaps being a Latin Scholar, your contemporary may have authority for such governing—are you aware of any such fact?—Yours obediently—A Daily Reader."

HONGKONG'S LITERATURE

The sale of Dr. Kenny's books does not say much for the literature of the Colony. An original edition of Burns' works fetched $3 only. Playfair's Chronology, a most valuable work out of print, sold for $25. Johnston's Dictionary, original edition $3. On the other hand, a Catholic bible fetched $40, and many other books brought more dollars than they cost shillings.

Around the Courts

MARINE COURT CASE.

Leaving Port Without Clearance.

A Chinese boatman named Leung Chul, aged 48 years of Junk No. T5093H, appeared before Commander Hole at the Marine Court yesterday, charged with leaving port without a clearance from the Harbour Master last Monday.

Water Police Sergeant May who prosecuted, told His Worship that while he was on duty in the Water Police Launch last Monday night, he met with the defendant's boat, which at that time was leaving the port. He stopped the defendant and asked if he had got a clearance from the Harbour Master before he was leaving, but the defendant failed to produce it.

The defendant in pleading guilty, said that he forgot to go to the Harbour Office to get a clearance, as he thought his cousin had already done so.

The Magistrate, however, imposed a fine of $10 on the defendant or one week hard labour in default.

INDIAN FINED $50.

Obtaining Money by False Pretences.

Accused of obtaining $40 from a Chinese coolie, by false pretences, Sheikh Abdoolah, 45, pleaded not guilty before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court yesterday.

After evidence was taken, his Worship convicted the defendant of obtaining $25, and imposed a fine of $50 or one month's hard labour in default. Defendant had a previous conviction for unlawful pawning.

Detective-Sergeant Fowle, for the prosecution, said on Monday afternoon a detective on patrol in Queen's Road was attracted by shouts of "Kwan pin" (fraud) by the complainant who was chasing the defendant. He arrested him and at the Central Police Station enquiries revealed that the defendant represented himself to be a watchman at the Government Workshop, Hungghom, and had promised to find the complainant work as a coolie foreman, through Ah Kwan, a friend of the complainant. Three meetings were held at a cafe at Wanchai and sums of $5, $10 and $25 were paid over. The defendant said he would need the money "to buy presents for the European at the workshop" in order to get the job. Defendant was never employed at the Government Workshop.

THEFT AT UNIVERSITY

Young Seaman Bound Over.

Charges of theft of a pair of trousers, a jacket, two fountain pens and a pencil from Lap Tsin, a boy at May Hall, Hong Kong University, were preferred against Li Chung Lin, an unemployed seaman, before Mr. Hamilton yesterday.

Chu Kuen, also unemployed, was charged with receiving the trousers, but he was discharged, when Sub-Inspector Fender stated that there was no evidence against him, except that he was arrested in company with first defendant, and was wearing the trousers.

Sub-Inspector Fender said the first defendant was a friend of the complainant, and on the afternoon of January 13 visited him at May Hall, and while complainant was away, went off with the articles. He was arrested on Monday afternoon in Queen's Street. Both defendants were going back to Swatow on the s.s. Hydrangea.

Li Chung Lin admitted the theft of the trousers and one fountain pen and pencil.

Mr. Hamilton remarked that he would bind him over in $50 to keep the peace for six months, as he was a young man and had not been in trouble before.

As defendant desired to be sent back to Swatow, Mr. Hamilton remanded him in police custody until the boat leaves.

The second defendant also expressed a wish to be sent to Swatow, and as he was willing to remain in police custody, Mr. Hamilton agreed, saying the Poor Box would pay any money necessary for their fare.

PICKPOCKET SENT TO PRISON.

For Theft of Wallet and Pen.

When charged before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistrate's yesterday, with having stolen a wallet containing some documents and a fountain pen from Lam Kit Ting, in Queen's Road West, a Chinese named Lee Yuk pleaded that somebody had planted the wallet on him.

Sub-Inspector Elston said the complainant was standing in Queen's Road West, when he suddenly missed his wallet and fountain pen. An acquaintance of his came up and told him that the defendant had got them. He went up to defendant, and held him till a district watchman came up and searched defendant. The wallet and pen were found in his inside jacket pocket.

Evidence was given by the complainant and the watchman, after which defendant said that complainant's friend must have stolen the wallet, and, on seeing the constable, put it into his pocket.

Mr. Hamilton convicted and sentenced defendant to six weeks' imprisonment.

By pretending that he could obtain employment at the Treasury for a friend, a Chinese obtained $5 from him. He was later discovered to be in no way connected with the Treasury and was arrested for obtaining money by false pretences. Sentence of six months' imprisonment was passed.

Six weeks' imprisonment was imposed by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistrate's yesterday, on Li San, unemployed, who admitted a charge of theft of some clothing, a camera and other articles, to the total value of $90.70 from Lau Suk King, a gambler, at No. 240, Des Voeux Road West.

SERIOUS CASE IN KOWLOON

Bail of $2,000 on Remand

Charges of a serious nature, according to the Magistrate, were preferred, at the Kowloon magistracy yesterday against a Chinese named Chan Kwok Wah who was arraigned on charges of having obtained $250 by false pretences from an old man and of having falsely represented himself as a Western medical practitioner.

According to Detective Sergeant Kennedy who prosecuted the defendant represented himself as a medical practitioner, and obtained $250 from Li Ying Chau, living at 68, Cheungshawan Road, for a certain treatment in the neck. The "treatment" was merely sticking a piece of plaster on the complainant's neck.

After receiving the money, defendant was never seen near the complainant's house again. The complainant's son, Li Shiu Lyn, heard of the matter and made a report to the Shamshuipo Police, who arrested the defendant after a long search.

When arrested, defendant had in his possession a stethoscope, various bottles of medicine and pamphlets bearing the mark of "The Chung Wah Hospital, Pokfulam."

Mr. R. A. Cole who appeared for the defence informed his worship, Mr. Wynne-Jones, that he was instructed only about two hours previously, and would therefore ask for an adjournment in order to enable him to go into the particulars of the case.

His Worship remarked that he would not grant the remand had the case not been of such a serious nature. The defendant had ample time to arrange his defence but as Mr. Cole had only been instructed within such a short time he would remand the case till next Monday after.

He warned Mr. Cole that he would be severe in dealing with the defendant unless, of course, the defence had proved its case.

He was not granting the remand mainly on the ground of giving Mr. Cole time to go into the case but on the ground of the importance and seriousness of the case.

Mr. Cole then asked for bail and his Worship fixed it at $2,000.

2nd floor, early yesterday morning, Sub-Inspector Fender said defendant gained access to the floor by climbing over the verandah of No. 238. He was arrested at the foot of the staircase.

Alleged to be one of two men concerned in a robbery in Reclamation Street on Sunday evening Yim Kwong was charged by Detective Inspector Doring at the Kowloon Magistracy before Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday with committing a robbery with violence. Inspector Doring told the Court that altogether $548.47 was taken from the complainant, Lok Ting Sung. The other man, who presumably had the money, got away. No money was found on the defendant when arrested. A remand of 48 hours was applied for and granted.

Chung Tin, a returned banished, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour by Mr. Balfour in the Central Magistracy yesterday for disobeying a deportation order. Defendant said he returned to Hong Kong for medical treatment to his eyes.

Mr. Hin Shing Lo appeared at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on behalf of a woman named Chan Kan who was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones with (1) being in possession of 850 taels of raw opium on the third floor of No. 254, Reclamation Street and (2) being in possession of 28 taels of prepared opium. Chief Preventive Officer Butler appeared for the prosecution. On the application of Mr. Lo a formal remand was granted.

"ROTARY AND WAR"

Moulding Opinion Against Hostilities

DEAN SWANN'S APPEAL TO ROTARIANS

"We ought to be helping world public opinion to see war as it really is," said Dean Swann, addressing the Rotary Club yesterday. He spoke on "Rotary and War" and in the course of his speech traced the reasons that led to international suspicion and apprehension.

Mr. T. B. Wilson presided at the meeting and those present included Rotarian Braddell of the Singapore Rotary Club.

HORRORS OF WAR EXAMINED

In the course of his address, Dean Swann said:—On the only other occasion when a harassed programme committee has persuaded me to talk to the Rotary Club I spoke on the—very congenial subject of Rowing. The subject which I have chosen for this talk could not well be more different from my last. Rowing is one of the healthiest and modern war quite definitely one of the unhealthiest of men's pursuits. Rowing is full of good sportsmanship and clean constructive rivalry. Present day war has said goodbye to chivalry, and taking its origin in bitter competition, it finds its fulfilment in wholesale destruction, and perpetuated suspicion and ill will.

Rotary and Service.

In accepting nomination as Rotarians we all as much underook to conduct our various jobs in the spirit of service. If we did with our tongues in our cheeks the present life is a better time than any other to be honest and resign. But if we mean business in this matter of service we may very well set ourselves as a body to think out and talk out the questions which vitally concern us in our relation to our fellowmen.

Now the continuing state of international suspicion, and unfriendly rivalry is one of the most urgent of the world's troubles. I myself am almost a complete ignoramus in this subject, and my only justification for plunging into it is the hope that I may thereby provoke more knowledgeable Rotarians to take it up on future occasions and make the valuable contributions to public opinion for which they are qualified, and which are very much needed.

I believe that we shall come increasingly to recognise that lasting international peace cannot be secured under our present system of commerce and finance. Overseas trade, as at present organised competitively for private gain, will, I think, be revealed as the principal cause of war. And we shall find that procedure and methods which we have always must be radically altered if the seeds of bitterness are not continually to be sown. But this is where I know myself to be out of my depth, and I hope that others may come to my rescue and to the rescue of the average man who is very much in my position.

Nevertheless I am absolutely sure of some things. One is that it is a gross libel to assert that man is and will always be acquisitive and pugnacious, and another is that man is most himself when he genuinely cares for and serves his fellowmen; the mere pursuit of personal gain is a motive for activity which belongs to primitive man.

The Lunacy of War.

I feel that it is necessary to begin at a point which ought not to need mentioning—namely the "lunacy" of war. It is surprising that it should be necessary to labour this point. It seems to some of us so self-evident that it determines all our thinking on the subject. But as yet one can take for granted no widespread conviction about this. We describe war as regrettable or inconvenient if we are middle aged, or we call it perfectly foul if we have had a dose of it. But we all think it up to us to make rather light of it, since by so doing we show that we are he-men. And all the time a generation is growing up around which looks forward quite gaily to a scrap and thinks what fun it will be when it can let off its machine gun. The essential brutality and utter violence of settling disputes with your neighbour by slaughtering and maiming as many of him as possible is not keenly felt by the majority. Far too much emphasis is still laid upon the heroisms of war and far too little on its bestialities and absurdities.

Just recall for a moment the great war. Something like ten million men were slaughtered, and all over the world in almost every country there are millions of homes still empty. Young men and women robbed of fathers, women whose hearts were at first desolate and now are dumb-bravely going forward in a second best. The time has long since gone by when they were able to deceive themselves into thinking that the sacrifice was necessary. They now realise that the whole thing was at a best a ghastly mistake, at worst the product of devilish human minds.

Fifteen years have passed since the end of it, and still there must be gigantic appeals for funds for the tending of the disabled, the blind, the insane. What an appalling legacy from a performance which some would have us believe will inevitably occur again!

And the world is now short of first-rate leadership, because its best brains were blown sky high, as though they were so much mud. You have only to note the personnel of the House of Commons to see how much Britain has been the loser in first-class man power. Outstanding men of the late thirties and early forties are not there. The whole world is suffering from a monstrous waste of first-rate life.

Peace A Mockery.

But far worse than any individual trouble are the bitterness, hostility and suspicion which are "increased" by war, and which form the seed-bed for another conflict worse than the last. From all this welter of ill-will springs the keeping up of armaments which makes of so-called peace a mockery. And here one arrives at the gate of the Armament factory.

I believe that the present almost universal organisation of the whole of industry and commerce primarily for private gain is the root cause of international conflict, but I am not capable of working this contention out in detail. Any ordinary person, however, is capable of recognising how terribly dangerous to say the least of it, is our acquiescence in the manufacture of armaments by private firms on a profit-making basis.

As matters now stand it is in the interest of individuals that international ill-will should persist, and we have no business to allow such a situation to continue. The strain put upon human nature is more than it can bear, and the secret fomenting of international bitterness easily follows. The Press is too often a ready tool for this, since war scares are good copy, and again self-interest steps in to encourage the maintenance of ill-will. It is said that the French armament firm of Schneider Creusot holds a controlling interest in three of the largest French newspapers. There is good reason for believing that Armament interests are fomenting the fear of war on which their profits depend, and this is the direct result of the private ownership of armament firms.

Mr. Shearer at Geneva.

The case of Mr. Shearer is one which probably could be paralleled in almost any country if the facts were known. You may remember how in 1929 a certain Mr. Shearer sued the three largest ship-building corporations in America for over $255,000, which he maintained was due to him for preventing any effective disarmament from the Geneva Naval Conference of 1927. Shearer admitted having already received $51,000; and after President Hoover's enquiry the Bethlehem Steel Corporation acknowledged that Shearer had been employed by them as an "observer" at the Conference at a fee of $25,000. It is known that Mr. Shearer was engaged at Geneva in energetic propaganda with a view to defeating arms limitation. He entertained naval officers and newspaper correspondents; he took every opportunity of stimulating the marine industry for the navy; and he sent out literature intended to discredit American advocates of peace. His work, therefore, as an "observer" was fairly active, and I fail to see how his employment can be described but as a conspiracy on the part of an armament firm against the peace of the world.

Again, as things now are, it is

KOSHING STREET FIRE

4 Storeyed Building Involved

GIRL OF EIGHT MISSING

A fire which might have been followed by disastrous consequences broke out in the early hours of yesterday morning and after it had raged for some time, gutted the whole of No. 90 Koshing Street, a four storeyed house.

The area is extremely congested and the firemen concentrated their efforts as much on subduing the flames as to prevent its spread. In addition to water from the mains, two motor pumps were set in motion pumping salt water on the burning building.

The floors and wooden stairway enabled the flames to spread rapidly to the upper stories. The fire is believed to have originated on the ground floor. The inmates of the various floors, however, made good their escape, except a small girl who is reported missing.

Firemen after the flames had been quelled went over the debris, but were unable to find the body of the child although they went ten feet deep into the debris. The building however, was too dangerous to further work to be carried out and yesterday the P.W.D. were busy shoring it up. The search for the remains of the child will be resumed to-day.

CORNISHMEN'S REUNION

To Be Held Instead Of Society

At a meeting of local Cornishmen held in the board room of the "South China Morning Post" last evening it was decided to hold a Reunion in the near future if sufficient support were forthcoming. The feeling of the meeting was against the formation of a Cornish society, and there was also in the interest of governments to encourage the export of arms. While fear of war exists such export is continually necessary in order that their nation's capacity to produce up-to-date armaments shall be maintained at the height of efficiency.

Vicious Circle.

Here a vicious circle becomes apparent. Our own nation must persuade its neighbours, whether potential friends or enemies, to purchase our arms in order that "we" may be adequately armed. What a paradise for private armament interests!

Government licences are necessary for the export of arms, but there is no difficulty in securing these, since constant export is in the interest of governments. The League of Nations has tried to enforce publicity in the matter of the distribution of arms, but without success. The British Delegate on a special commission said "we have no power to compel the manufacturers to give this information, and very few governments would have the courage to make them do so." The League was anxious to put a check on private armament firms, because they play so big a part in keeping alive the war fear and international hostility.

In 1921 a League of Nations report was published making definite accusations of the greatest gravity against armament firms. The report deliberately stated: (1) That armament firms have fomented war-scares. (2) Have attempted to bribe government officials. (3) Have spread false reports concerning military and naval programmes of foreign countries in order to stimulate armament expenditure. (4) Have sought to influence public opinion through control of the press.

That is a sober statement made by a responsible body of men with no axe to grind, and whose business, unlike that of its opponents, is carried on in public.

One may dislike the way in which such people as Beverley Nichols and Fenner Brockway have recently written, and in so far as they attempt to scare public opinion away from war I think they make a big mistake, because the encouragement of cowardice will not bring peace. But I feel sure that despite these defects they have done a considerable service in making widely known facts which reveal the network of self-interest which lies behind our war mentality.

TRAFFIC TIME AT CENTRAL

The Car Park Question Again

R. Bizazzi, driver of private car No. 642, was summoned before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, for having driven in Wyndham Street, which was a prohibited road, and was fined $10.

Mr. T. H. King, Deputy Inspector General of Police, said complainant passed him when he was walking down Wyndham Street.

Defendant pleaded that he did not see the sign.

Mr. Hamilton remarked that he objected very strongly to finding people driving between On Lan Street and Wellington Street.

Mr. King said defendant came down from the Dairy Farm.

The drivers of two private cars were cautioned. One for having parked his car in On Lan Street and the other for having driven in Wellington Street, without permit.

Mr. Hamilton said that other cars were allowed to park there with permits. How were defendants to know that permits were necessary?

Leung Ho, a lorry driver, was fined $10 for having driven at 28 miles an hour in Shaokwan Road.

To Hol, a private car driver was similarly fined for speeding in a controlled area.

Kan Yuet-keung, driver of private car No. 3853, summoned for having disobeyed a traffic signal at the junction of Caine and Arbuthnot Roads, was fined $10.

Inspector Nicol said defendant was driving along Upper Albert Road and proceeding towards Arbuthnot Road. He turned into Caine Road, and passed the signal which was against him, nearly colliding with a private car.

general approval of the idea to an informal annual Reunion of a private character.

A further meeting is to be held on Monday, 29th inst. at 5.45 p.m. at the same place.

Those who were unable to attend yesterday's meeting are asked to communicate with Mr. Alfred Hicks, c/o The Hongkong "Telegraph."

What is Rotary doing.

Well, what is Rotary doing about it? Its idea of service is good. But is it seriously doing what is in its power as an association of representative men to translate its ideal into action and fact?

The pursuit of self-interest, taking many different forms, is the root cause of every kind of human conflict. We Rotarians profess that we are out to serve our fellowmen. In my view we ought as a body to be frankly and boldly examining the whole of our public life so as to discover and to correct those departments of it which are at present inconsistent with the ideal of service.

We ought to be helping world public opinion to see war as it really is, stripped of its so-called glamour; to see it in its essential unreasonableness as a method of settling international disputes, and to recognise it as the evil that it is, taking its origin from the uncontrolled pursuit of self-interest in some form or another, and issuing in broadcast human misery.

The Truly Great.

This is where this talk ended yesterday. This morning I have added an appendix. I am reading a remarkable life of Edward Wilson who died on his way back from the South Pole with Scott. In the introduction by Cherry-Garrard appear the following two passages which seem to me to reflect the sort of spirit we need nowadays, in the mess that the world is in.

These men in the Antarctic were competing with the most appalling circumstances, where one might almost have excused a cry of "every man for himself." But this is what Cherry-Garrard says: "When men who are truly great get into these messes they think more and more of others, and less and less of themselves. One wonders what Napoleon would have done under similar circumstances. What these men did, and what they wrote inspired the world. There was no trace of selfishness, no regret for themselves, no blame of others. There was, it shines through all we know and read, all human help for their companions, and thought for those who would be left." And again—"In a post-war world where ideals have been smashed by the million and disillusion has won the temporary day, where men and nations live on jealousy and fear, it is almost impossible, though inexpressibly pleasant, to get back into that atmosphere where a number of men risked their lives and all that was dear to them for an ideal."

OUR A.D.C.

"Ten Minute Alibi" To Be Presented

Following the A.D.C.'s previous announcement, theatre goers will welcome the news that the Club has in active preparation, Anthony Armstrong's famous play "Ten Minute Alibi" which will be presented at the new Royal Naval Canteen Theatre on February 17, 20, 21, 23, and 24 at 9.15 p.m.

This remarkable play was produced almost a year ago at the Haymarket Theatre, London, and its success may be judged by the fact that it is still playing at that theatre to crowded houses. Every one must be familiar with the story of how this play was rejected by various London managers who subsequently vied with each other to secure the rights when it had been acclaimed by the critics. Since then the play has been adopted in twenty-three European countries.

With its highly ingenious plot and construction, and its atmosphere of suspense deftly sustained until the final fall of the curtain, the play is right in the front rank of detective thrillers.

The local production is in the experienced hands of Mrs. E. Grossman and an excellent cast has been secured. Booking at Anderson Music Co. will open in due course and an early application for seats is advisable.

A 1936 CRISIS

If China Offers To Purchase S.M.R.

Mr. G. Sakai Takigawa, Managing Director of the Kobe Exchange, is quoted by the "Yushin Nippo" as saying that he has been doing business with Chinese merchants for many years, but that not a single written contract has ever been exchanged. No Chinese merchant with whom he has hitherto done business has ever broken a promise because of the absence of a written contract. It is because Japanese diplomats do not understand China and the Chinese that there is an outcry among the Chinese for the recovery of Formosa, for the independence of Korea and for the restoration of the lost territory in Manchuria and Mongolia. Nor are the Japanese people generally possessed of a good knowledge of China and the Chinese. Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations over the Manchurian issue must have convinced the Japanese people of the fact that any serious trouble with China confronts Japan with a grave crisis.

It is popularly surmised that the year 1936 holds a grave crisis in store for Japan. The reason why that year is considered fateful by many people is that Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations takes effect, and the London Treaty expires that year. In Mr. Takigawa's opinion, a more important consideration is that China gains in 1936 the right to purchase the South Manchuria Railway Company. Suppose China offers to purchase the Railway with money borrowed, say, from America. In such a contingency, a very serious situation might arise for Japan, unless her diplomats and people are wide awake.

Mr. Takigawa is glad to note that Mr. Hirota, the new Foreign Minister, is earnestly endeavouring to restore friendly relations with China. All classes of people must try to understand China and the Chinese better so that an alliance may ultimately be concluded between the two countries. Just as merchants trust the other party to keep the promise, even without a written contract, Japan must behave in such a way as to compel China's implicit confidence in her people. Should there be a Sino-Japanese economic or offensive or defensive alliance, no Power would think of opening hostilities with Japan. It would contribute materially to world peace.

BROADCASTING BY B.B.C.

An examination of the 1934 Year Book of the British Broadcasting Corporation reveals that the Corporation is pursuing with undiminished courage its admirable policy of giving the public "something a little better than what it wants." Among similar institutions throughout the world the broadcasting service in Great Britain is unique in the emphasis it puts on the cultural possibilities of this marvel of modern science and its ramifications as a public utility service, and it has been fortunate in having from its very beginning a managing body fully conscious of its great responsibilities.

The constitution of the B.B.C. is that typically English compromise, between private enterprise and State control, which seems to bear such excellent fruit on British soil. One of the beneficial results of this constitution is that the service has never been forced to resort to advertising as a means of revenue and has therefore been able to keep an open and impartial platform in all branches of activity. Its revenue is derived entirely from the sale of wireless licences, obtainable at any Post Office branch throughout the country at ten shillings a year. But of these ten shillings only a portion is received by the Corporation, the rest being handed over to the State in the form of tax and contributions to various Government departments.

The Year Book shows that the sum received by the Corporation in 1932 was four shillings and seven pence out of each ten shillings, and it gives a detailed account of how this income was spent—how much was absorbed by artists' fees, orchestras, news service, staff salaries, engineering, etc. Special articles summarising the year's work in the various departments show what excellent value the listener gets for his money, and the Year Book is quite frank in its criticism where such is called for, and in its discussion of various difficulties.

Of special interest is the article on School Broadcasts, which reveals that 4,000 schools in Great Britain are at present availing themselves of the broadcast lessons in music, languages, history, and other subjects. In the teaching of modern languages nothing could be more valuable to the beginner than the specially arranged broadcast lessons, the object of which is to familiarise the pupils with the sound of the language spoken by a native teacher, and later on giving opportunities of listening to ordinary conversation or to the reading of literature and poetry.

The remarkable and progressive rise in the number of listeners proves that the British public appreciates the efforts of the B.B.C. in providing the best possible programmes. During the last year the number of licences sold rose from 4,821,436 to 5,854,408, and so far there is no evidence of saturation point having been reached.

The British Empire Service, inaugurated by the King with a broadcast greeting on Christmas Day, 1932, to all the peoples of the Empire, is a new field developed during the year. The ultimate aim of this service is an exchange of programmes between the motherland and its dominions and colonies, which will form yet another strong bond between the scattered lands of the great British Empire.

FOREIGN POWERS
TAKE ACTIONTO PROTECT FOREIGNERS
AT FOCHOW

Fochow, January 17.

Three Powers have landed forces at Fochow for the protection of their nationals due to confusion existing as a consequence of the presence of several thousand rebels near the city.

His Majesty's Berwick landed forty marines, the U.S.S. Tulsa thirty and the Japanese gunboats 480. The presence of these guards is deemed adequate for the protection of all foreigners in Fochow.—Reuter.

MARINES LANDED

H.M.S. Berwick, which is now standing by at Pagoda Anchorage, on Monday landed a small platoon of Royal Marines at Fochow, merely as a precautionary measure, according to information received yesterday from the Naval authorities.

All is reported to be quiet in Fochow. A few units of the XIX Route Army were yesterday seen leaving the city.

H.M.S. Berwick received orders to stand by late on Saturday night and left Hong Kong for Pagoda Anchorage in the early hours of Sunday morning.

H.M.S. Wild Swan, of the Eighth Destroyer Flotilla, is also at Pagoda Anchorage.

IN SZECHWAN.

Ichang, January 2.

News just to hand from Wanchien re conditions in Eastern Szechwan, states:—The situation in Eastern Szechwan, states:—The situation round Suining and Tungshang seems to be much improved. The cities are now both occupied by Liu Hsiang's men. The "Reds" have retreated about 180 li. In taking Feng Hwang Shan, the mountain behind Suining, General Fan lost one thousand men. The "Reds" probably did not lose so many, but their ammunition must be getting low.

Later news tells of visits paid up servants in mission employ, to these cities, who report that the mission property is entirely destroyed.

NO AGGRESSIVE INTENTIONS

Detmold, Jan. 15.

In his speech at a Remembrance Day of the last election campaign which took place here exactly one year ago Herr Hitler spoke of the progress of the party. It was the last local election in the Free State Lippe Detmold. Since that time all elections have been nationwide. The Chancellor in his speech explained the rules which guided the government through the last year. "We have no aggressive intention whatever, we do not want to stir up unrest, all that we want is to pursue our work in peace and in a spirit of deep moral conviction. We only ask for work and peace and our 'aggressive spirit' has exhausted unemployment."—Transocean Kuo Min.

GERMANY HAS NO REGRETS

Berlin, Jan. 16.

Germany has no cause, says the "Voelksrecht Beobachter," by establishing a precedent to play into the hands of her adversaries.

It was necessary and logical, says the "Beobachter" in referring to the German withdrawal from the League and Disarmament Conference. All papers agree that Germany by returning to Geneva could do nothing to help the Saar. The "Kreuzzeitung," however, vaguely hints that when the question of forming the Plebiscite Commission comes up for discussion, Germany might consider whether active co-operation in the League Commission is conducive to the interests of Saar Germans.—Transocean Kuo Min.

FRENCH AEROPLANE
DISASTERAll Passengers Burned to Death

Paris, January 16.

A French plane, thought to be the "Emeraude," from Indo-China, with the Governor-General of French Indo-China, M. Pasquier, aboard, crashed in flames at Corbigny.

Six bodies were taken from the wreckage.—Reuter.
It has been confirmed that the "Emeraude" has crashed. All nine people aboard, including the Governor-General of Indo-China, were incinerated.—Reuter.

M. Belazie, Director of Technical Services of the French Air Ministry, is the tenth victim of the "Emeraude" air disaster. The other nine are:—

The Governor-General Pasquier, M. Chaurier, Director of Commercial Aviation and his wife, M. Noques, a high official in the air company.

M. Pasquier's orderly officer, and four of the crew.

The "Emeraude" left Lyons at 6.15 p.m. for Paris and sent out a wireless message at 8.10 p.m. that she was flying at a height of 4,800 feet in a heavy snowstorm.

At 8.45 p.m. Le Bourget aerodrome heard from a Corbigny gendarme that the "Emeraude" had fallen in flames at the village of Guerigny, near Clamecy.

Every effort to rescue the occupants was frustrated by the intensity of the blaze.

It is believed that the accident was due to the formation of ice on the wings.—Reuter.

RECEPTION CANCELLED

The reception planned last night in honour of the men of the squadron of machines under General Vuillemin, was cancelled on receipt of the news of the Emeraude disaster.

The Air Minister, M. Pierre Cot, left for the scene of the tragedy immediately, and also appointed members of a Commission of Inquiry.—Reuter.

TRIPOLI'S NEW GOVERNORMarshal Balbo Given
Good Welcome

Rome, Jan. 15.

Tripoli made extensive preparations on Monday for the worthy reception of the newly appointed Governor, Marshal Balbo, who arrived with his staff on board a cruiser and was met by Signor Bruni and a fine display of the military forces of Tripoli. Marshal Balbo's predecessor took every step to ensure lasting peace and to establish a firm basis for colonization even to the most distant line of oases. Publications in this Colony expect that the new Governor with his enthusiasm will certainly be able to develop the Colony and to further its economic progress.—Transocean Kuo Min.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Mons. and Madame Maurice J. B. Montargis arrived in the Colony on Jan. 14 by the "d'Arignan."

One case each of diphtheria and septicaemia were reported in the Colony for the 24 hours ended January 15.

One case each of diphtheria, typhoid, septicaemia and 4 cases of meningitis were reported in the Colony for the week ended January 13.

The H.K. University Medical Society is to meet on Friday next at 5.15 p.m. when Dr. Tennyson Howie will speak on "Interesting Advances in Endocrinology." Members and friends are invited.

The General Labour Union of Shanghai has decided to hold a workmen's athletic meeting this spring with the object of promoting athletics among the workmen of Shanghai. An athletic committee was organised some time ago.

It is announced that in order to popularise railway travelling the Czech State Railways have introduced special coaches for dancing on their trains. Music is supplied by a jazz orchestra and buffets are provided for the dancers.

LE MATIN'S THEORY

Paris, January 16.

Nothing definite has yet been known as to what caused the disaster to the French aeroplane Emeraude but le Matin advances the theory that the plane, after passing through a snowstorm, became so weighted down by a heavy ice coating that it was forced to fly at a low altitude and thus struck a high tension cable wire near Corbigny. The paper points out in support of this theory that all lights went out in Corbigny at the precise moment that the plane crashed.

A committee has been appointed by the Air Ministry to conduct a thorough investigation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

CHINESE STEAMER
PIRATEDNine Wealthy Passengers Taken Captive

Shanghai, January 16.

A piracy on the China Merchant Steam Navigation Company's S.S. Poo An, 6,000 tons, was carried out in traditional manner to-day.

The vessel left Shanghai for Tientsin on 13th inst. with a hundred Chinese passengers, and when she was 100 miles out, 15 pirates, disguised as passengers, over-powered the ship's officers and compelled her Austrian master, Capt. Raks, at the point of a pistol, to head for a bay near Swatow where they disembarked last evening with their booty and carried off nine wealthy people for ransom.

ACADEMIC DEGREES
IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Jan. 16.

The generosity of Soviet Russian colleges and universities in bestowing academic titles and degrees has been somewhat curbed by a new Ordinance which provides that no academic degrees may henceforth be conferred, such as that of Bachelor of Science and Doctors of all faculties.

The former profusion of academic titles in Soviet Russia has now been cut down to three, namely assistant, lecturer, and professor.

To acquire any of these titles one must pass a rigid examination or have done important research work.—Transocean Kuo Min.

The Poo An was loaded with cargo but the pirates contented themselves with the cash, valuables and other personal belongings of the passengers who were terrified and did not resist the desperadoes.

The pirates seized control of the wireless-room but did not destroy the apparatus.

The China Merchants Steam Navigation Company have wired the Ministry of Navy urging them to send a gunboat to exterminate the pirates and rescue the captives.—Reuter.

POLAND'S DEBTS
DECREASEOwing of Sterling Dollar Depreciation

Warsaw, Jan. 16.

Poland's national debt has decreased by roughly 1,000,000,000 zloty, owing to the depreciation of Sterling and dollar currencies according to a report presented by the Budget committee, which revealed that the national debt totals 4,450,000,000 zloty of which 3,500,000,000 represents foreign debt. These figures do not include guarantees amounting to 51 million zloty given by the State for French Bank loan and other undertakings.—Transocean Kuo Min.

AUSTRIA'S NEW CONSTITUTIONNow Founded On Christian Principles

Vienna, Jan. 16.

The new Christian constitution in Austria will begin with the formula "In the name of Almighty God who started all laws, the Austrian people receive this constitution." Instead of the formula hitherto used which runs "All power is derived from the people," according to Press reports.

Papers add that the Dollfuss Government is thereby anxious to stress the transformation of the Liberal Austrian state founded on the principle of the French Revolution into a state based in Christian principles.—Transocean Kuo Min.

A SIXTY CENT AMERICAN DOLLAR

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER ALL GOLD

Roosevelts Message to Congress

Washington, January 16. Sixty per cent revaluation of the United States dollar is urged by President Roosevelt in his message delivered in Congress yesterday. While stressing the importance of silver in the monetary system of the world, the President withheld his own silver message.

ROOSEVELTS MESSAGE RECEIVED FAVOURABLY

President Roosevelt's message has generally favourably impressed the New York commodity markets. Anticipatory buying was followed by rather heavy selling, but offerings were taken on slight reactions, with buying becoming more active on the announcement of a new gold price.

Some radical inflationists are disappointed at President Roosevelt's stand against monetary inflation, while some more speculative silver interests hoped for a more definite statement.

Senators Carter Glass, (Democrat), and Daniel Hastings, (Republican), stigmatised President Roosevelt's action as robbery. The anthracite miners of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, numbering 15,400, have struck after a dispute with rival Trade Unions.—Reuter.

President Roosevelt, in his message to Congress stated:

"In conformity with the progress we are now making in restoring a fairer price level and with the purpose of arriving, eventually, at a less variable purchasing power for the dollar, I ask Congress to certify additional legislation to improve the financial and monetary situation.

"By making it clear that we are establishing permanent metallic reserves in the possession of the Federal Government, we can organize a currency which will be sound and adequate."

The message declared that control of currency was the high prerogative of the Government.

"Many advocate gold and silver, either separately or with a fixed ratio, as a basis for currency, the message stated.

"We hope that despite the present world confusion, events are leading to some future form of general agreement in times of emergency. The practice of transferring gold individually or internationally is not only unnecessary but in every way undesirable.

"The transfer of gold in bulk was essential only for the payment of international trade balances, and therefore it was prudent to vest in the Government the title to possession of all monetary gold within its boundaries, keeping that gold in bullion rather than in coin.

"We had already called in the gold possession of private individuals and corporations. There remained a large weight of gold in possession of the Federal Reserve Banks, although under the existing law, there was authority by Executive Acts to take title to all supplies of American-owned monetary gold.

"This is a step of such importance that we prefer to ask Congress, by specific enactments, to vest in the United States Government all supplies of American-owned gold with the provision for payment thereof in gold certificates.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

"The gold certificates will be secured for all times as now dollar for dollar, by gold in the Treasury of such weight and fineness as may be established from time to time.

Such legislation places the right title to ownership of gold reserves in the Government itself, and also makes clear the Government ownership of any added dollar value to the country's gold stock resulting from any decrease in the gold content of the dollar, which may be made in public interests.

"If public interests should require an increased amount of gold in the dollar, the loss would fall upon the Government.

"The title to all gold being in the Government, the total stock would serve as a permanent fixed metallic reserve changing in amount only so far as necessary for the settlement of international balances, or as may be required by future agreement among nations for re-distribution of the world stock of monetary gold.

THE DOLLAR'S VALUE

"With the establishment of this permanent policy, the time has come for a more certain determination of the gold value of the dollar.

"In consequence of the world uncertainty, the President does not believe it desirable in public interest that the exact value should now be fixed.

"The President will be authorized by the present legislation to fix a lower limit, permissible for revaluation, at 50 per cent. "A careful study leads me to believe that any revaluation exceeding 60 per cent. of the present statutory value would not be in public interest. Therefore, I recommend that Congress fix the upper limit of permissible revaluation at 60 per cent.

"In order that we be further prepared to bring a greater degree of stability in foreign exchange rates, there should be added to the present power of the Secretary of the Treasury to buy and sell gold at home and abroad, the express power to deal with foreign exchange as such."

$2,000,000,000 FUND

From the profits of any devaluation, the President suggested that there should be established a fund of U.S.$2,000,000,000 for the purchase and sale of gold, foreign exchange and Government securities, as the regulation of currency, maintenance of credit and general welfare of the United States may require.

"The foreshadowed amendments to existing legislation relating to dealings in gold and other monetary matters, and added that the other precious metal, silver, had been used from time immemorial as a metallic basis for currency and also as actual currency itself.

"It is used as such by probably half the population of the world, and it constitutes a most important part in our own monetary structure," he stated.

"SILVER CANNOT BE NEGLECTED"

"Silver is such a crucial factor in much of the international trade of the world that it cannot be neglected."

He recalled the proclamation of December 21, providing coinage for newly-mined silver.

"By this measure we are increasing our reserves of silver bullion, thereby putting us among the first nations to carry out the Silver Agreement," he said.

"This Agreement is distinctly a step in the right direction. We are proceeding to perform our part of the agreement after reviewing the pledges given at the World Economic Conference."

"If all these undertakings are carried out by the Government's concern," he continued, "there will be a marked increase in the use and value of silver."

"Governments can well employ silver as a basis for currency. I look forward to a greatly increased use of silver."

"However, I am withholding any recommendation to Congress looking to further the extent of the monetary use of silver, because I believe that we should gain more knowledge of the results of the London Agreement by our other monetary measures," President Roosevelt added.

TWO MAIN PRINCIPLES

President Roosevelt stressed two principles.

Firstly, that national currency must be maintained as sound currency, having a fairly constant purchasing power, and that it must be adequate for daily use and the establishment of credit.

Secondly, the inherent right of the Government to issue currency and to be the sole custodian and owner of the base or reserve of precious metals underlying currency.

With this goes the prerogative of the Government to determine from time to time the extent and nature of the metallic reserve.

"I am confident that the nation will realise the definite purpose of the Government to maintain credit and provide a sound medium of exchange for serving the needs of the people," President Roosevelt concluded.—Reuter.

PRICE OF NEWLY MINED GOLD

Washington, January 16. The Secretary of the United States Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, has announced that beginning to-day, the official price of newly-mined gold per fine ounce will be U.S.$34.45 less one-quarter of one per cent. for handling charges.

This is assumed to be the Treasury price, and not the Reconstruction

Finance Corporation's price. The formal announcement regarding the matter is promised later.

M. Morgenthau, has set Wednesday night as the "deadline" for delivery to the Treasury of all gold held by individuals, not including the Federal Reserve Banks, whose total holdings are estimated at over $700,000,000.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation increased the gold fund to $150,000,000, all but $25,000,000 of which has already been used.

Domestic purchases totalled 681,000 ounces, valued at $22,898,000 besides $97,000,000 foreign gold.

Mr. Jesse Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation said the Corporation will leave the Corporation with a gold profit, because it can sell gold overseas. He indicated that the Corporation's foreign gold was earmarked for London and Paris.

President Roosevelt has issued three executive orders for the Government regulation of foreign exchange transactions, extending the licence policy to individuals as well as banks.

The White House has explained that the orders are substantially the same as the regulations issued on March 10, but instead of applying only to banks they now apply to all persons dealing in foreign exchange.

The new orders are said to be intended to pave the way for dealing by Mr. Morgenthau, the Secretary of the Treasury.—Reuter.

DOLLAR AND POUND FALL

Paris, January 16. The dollar and the pound fell here yesterday in anticipation of President Roosevelt's message which did not reach Paris until the Bourse had closed.

The Bourse, though somewhat nervous, has no fears in regard to the stability of the franc.

The French are highly desirous that the pound should not drop pari passu with the dollar, but it is regarded as unlikely that the money market in Paris will be much affected.—Reuter.

LITTLE REACTION IN LONDON

London, January 16. There is as yet, but little reaction in London to President Roosevelt's speech, owing to the news arriving after business hours.

It is generally felt, however, that 60 per cent. dollar revaluation, though imposing considerable strain on France and England, will be temporarily bearable pending a final international agreement for which President Roosevelt is believed to be heading.

The further 10 per cent. depreciation held in reserve is regarded as a bargaining weapon.

It is believed that depreciation beyond 40 per cent. will precipitate France into abandoning the gold standard which President Roosevelt does not desire, as it will result in the loss of the present advantage which he hopes to maintain as long as possible.—Reuter.

SHORTAGE OF DOLLARS

London, January 16. The reason that the dollar has not weakened heavily after President Roosevelt's announcement is believed to be due to the fact of a heavy commercial demand for dollars in London and Paris and a consequent shortage of dollars.—Reuter.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT

London, January 16. The 60 cent. dollar feature of President Roosevelt's proposals receives special attention in the comments in the British Press.

"The Financial Times," describing the proposal as giving "promise of greater stability," remarks that the decision will have a great advantage in fixing the maximum margin risk involved in entering transactions in United States currency.

Bankers and industrialists will be more inclined to deal freely, but it remains to be seen whether President Roosevelt can reconcile the often conflicting influences of currency prices and wages.

The "Morning Post" declares that the message clarifies President Roosevelt's monetary policy, though it will disappoint those who expected immediate stabilisation.

Discussing the effect on British export trade, the newspaper points out that a 60 cent. dollar will be disadvantageous owing to a slight accentuation of the existing undervaluation of the dollar in terms of world commodity purchases, but if President Roosevelt's expectations are fulfilled, the disadvantage should be only temporary.—Reuter.

CURRENCY STABILISATION?

London, Jan. 16. The pronouncement of the American gold policy has not met with unsympathetic reception in London. The full explanation of her policy has relieved the markets of apprehensions. It is felt a definite step has been made towards international currency stabilisation.

The chief reaction on the Stock Exchange was keen interest in Gold Shares, Kafirs, West Australians, and West Africans all advancing.

American shares reflected the overnight strength. On Wall Street, on the contrary, gilt edged securities and rails were sold to provide funds for future speculative investments. Textiles were easier owing to fears of intensified competition in America by Japan as it is feared the latter may further depreciate her currency.

Foreign exchanges show further weakness with sterling compared with gold currencies. It is believed due to heavy purchases by American gold and gold currencies.

Some mostly through London. Some are inclined to believe that this is an indication of a vague understanding between British and American authorities to prevent the dollar depreciating heavily against sterling.

Silver is inclined to ease, although the market believes Mr. Roosevelt's speech contains nothing to induce large American holders to sell.

Commodities are higher in sympathy with the favourable American reception of Mr. Roosevelt's speech.—Reuter.

SILVER MARKET

(From Our Special Correspondent)

London, January 16.

Following are the Silver Quotations on the London market today:

Spot	Jan. 16	Jan. 15
Forward	194 19 1/2	194 19 1/2
The London on New York cross rates to-day at 2 p.m. closed at	£=U.S. $5.11 1/2

HOW WILL IT EFFECT BRITAIN?

The "Daily Telegraph" considers that the value of the message lies in the removal of all uncertainty in regard to American policy, but adds that President Roosevelt is still faced with the problem of keeping the dollar down to the level he regards as vital.

According to the "Daily Telegraph's" political correspondent, a special meeting of the Cabinet will meet to-day to consider the possible harmful effects of Roosevelt's policy on British trade.

FRANCE IMPERILLED

The Financial News thinks that the depreciation of the dollar may result in sterling depreciation against the franc and that if this depreciation occurs on a large scale, it is conceivable that President Roosevelt's action will bring the franc's departure from the gold standard more within the bounds of possibility.

"The Times" says that by making a move in the direction of stabilisation, President Roosevelt is doing something to lessen the uncertainty, which prevailed regarding the uncertainty of the dollar and which checked the revival of confidence.—Reuter.

New York, January 16. All monetary silver, in the United States will be nationalised as well as gold, according to Senator Thomas, who stated that subsidiary silver would continue to circulate but, that the bulk of silver would be collected and placed with the Treasury to become reserves for the issue of paper currency.—Reuter.

Washington, January 16. The Senate passed a Bill extending the life of the R. F. C. until February 1935, increasing its lending power by $500 Million dollars.

GOLD MESSAGE EXPLAINED

Washington. Explaining his gold message to journalists, Mr. Roosevelt declared the objective in his monetary programme was to restore the purchasing power of the dollar to a level at which debts to the country were incurred.—Reuter.

TO BORROW $10,000,000,000

Washington, January 16. Mr. Morgenthau said the Government still planned to borrow $10,000,000,000 but explained the profits from devaluation could be employed to meet Government expenses. The Treasury intended to take over gold owned by the R. F. C. At the old price of the 22 1/2 per fine ounce, the R. F. C. bearing any loss Mr. Morgenthau announced further that he considered an agreement between the United States, Britain and France would be sufficient to bring about international stabilisation. The U.S. Gold stock might be distributed in other countries to form trade

SAAR REGION QUESTION

Grave Aspect Anticipated

Geneva, January 16.

The Saar region question is assuming a more grave aspect than was anticipated.

The President of the Governing Commission is shortly expected to lay fresh evidence before the League Council regarding the violence of Nazi propaganda in the Saar.

There is even a strong belief that the occupation of the territory by international military forces will be envisaged when the League Council discusses the subject at the end of the week.—Reuter.

Budapest, Jan. 15.

The Austrian Nazi refugees who crossed the Hungarian border a few days ago have been interned at Gyula, a small place near the eastern border of Hungary. The Austrian Nazis said they preferred to leave their country rather than being maltreated "at home" in concentration camps.—Transocean Kuo Min.

THE ITALIAN BUDGET

Constitution of Corporations Approved

Rome, Jan. 15.

During his speech for the approval of the budget of the Ministry of Home Affairs the under secretary Mr. Guido Buffarini declared that 105 Municipalities have been struck off the list of zones infested by malaria.

The Minister of Communications, Count Ciano, delivered a speech to the Senate on the occasion of the discussion of the Budget of the Minister of Communications. During his speech he announced that a great quantity of the railway lines will be completely electrified. Examining the situation of the materials and of the employees the Minister stated that in Italy 20 employees were only 8 employees per kilometre while other European railways have at least 20.

Examining the situation of the Mercantile Marine, Minister Salde declared that the traffic of the ports was greatly augmented and that the tonnage of scrapped ships was much inferior to that of previous years.

Mussolini presented to the chamber the outline of a new law concerning the constitution of Corporations. The scheme which has been loudly approved by members of the chamber will be discussed next Thursday at the Legislative sitting.—Transocean Kuo Min.

HISHIKARI VISITS CHANGCHUN

Harbin, Jan. 16.

Paying his first official visit to Harbin General Hishikari arrived from Changchun yesterday by air. The Commander-in-Chief against whom an assassination attempt is rumored to have been plotted, drove to the Japanese military headquarters through streets lined with Japanese and Manchukuo troops and thronged with sight-seers.—Reuter.

EUROPEAN WOMAN KILLED

London, January 16.

A severe earthquake shock, causing some loss of life, was experienced over a large part of India yesterday.

In Calcutta, tremors lasted three minutes, but, although some alarm was caused and a number of buildings were damaged, no one was seriously injured.

It is believed that nine people were killed at Gaya, Bihar, eight at Patna, while at Jamalpur, the Bengal Station Buildings collapsed, killing the wife and children of the European Manager of the Railway Workshop and the wife of the local Medical Officer.

Several buildings also collapsed at Benares, Lucknow, and in towns in the United Provinces. Tremors were only slightly felt at Bombay.

It is believed that India escaped the centre of the disturbance, which was recorded on seismographs in Great Britain as one of exceptional severity.—British Wireless Service.

EARTHQUAKE IN INDIA

Most Serious Since 1897

Bombay, January 16.

Twenty-five people have so far been reported killed here in the violent earthquake shock which was felt throughout India, yesterday afternoon. Two hundred, at least, have been injured.

The earthquake which was the most general since 1897, extended over an area from Gujarat in the west to east Bengal and from the Madras Presidency to the Himalayas. Punjab was the centre of the disturbance.

It appears that the district about 1,000 miles east of Bombay and 100 miles north-west of Calcutta was affected.

Ninety people were sent to hospital at Patna, where families are homeless. Many of the dead and injured are lying in the debris.

The damage at Gaya is reported to be as heavy as at Patna, but no details have yet been received.

56 PEOPLE KILLED

Calcutta, Jan. 16.

Latest official figures are 56 killed and 407 injured and four thousand houses damaged in the Patna neighbourhood. Six people were killed in Jamalpur, while a 130 from 180 railway huts in Jamalpur collapsed and are uninhabitable.—Reuter.

ENGLISH WOMAN KILLED

Calcutta, Jan. 16.

The earthquake fatalities included an English woman Mrs. C. W. Moon who died when her living quarters at Jamalpur station, 300 miles from Calcutta collapsed. She was the wife of the Works Manager of the Railway Workshop at Jamalpur.—Reuter.

50 INJURED AT PATNA

Calcutta, Jan. 16.

It is now stated that there were 33 killed and 18 injured in the earthquake at Jamalpur. Ten were killed and 50 injured at Patna where further mild shocks were felt this morning. There was not much damage. Thirteen shocks were altogether recorded last night.—Reuter.

A TERRIBLE ACCUSATION

Alleged Cold-Blooded Murder

Chicago, January 16.

A terrible accusation that Dr. Alice Wynkoop was the cold-blooded slayer of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, although Alice was the object of her greatest love was made by the prosecutor at yesterday's sitting of the surgery murder trial.

The Prosecutor alleged that the object of the crime was to secure the insurance money on Rheta's life, the Wynkoop family being financially embarrassed by mortgages on their home.

The premiums on the other policies were unpaid.—Reuter.

A GREAT SURPRISE

Mr. Granville Visits Vienna

Vienna, Jan. 15.

Great surprise was caused on Monday by the unexpected arrival of the British Foreign Minister's parliamentary secretary, Mr. Granville. Although his purpose was officially stated to be "private," Granville on the first day had long conversations with Dr. Dollfus and the Lord Mayor, Seitz as well as with other leading political personalities. Suwich, head of the Italian Foreign Office has announced his intention of arriving in Vienna on Thursday, ostensibly for discussions connected with concessions to Austria of rights in the Italian port of Trieste. Following this announcement the Hungarian Minister of Agriculture, Kallai, who reached Vienna on Monday to discuss certain important economic issues between the two countries declared he would prolong his stay so as to be at hand when the Austro-Italian negotiations were taking place.—Transocean Kuo Min.

HOME FOOTBALL

JACK FRYER DEAD

Jack Fryer, the former Fulham and Derby County goalkeeper, died in St. George's Hospital to-day, at the age of 56. For several years he kept a public-house opposite the Chelsea football ground.

Like several other Derby players, he appeared in three Cup finals between 1898 and 1903, but never gained a winners' medal. The County, who have never won the Cup were beaten on each occasion.

Jack Fryer was a fine figure of a man, standing about 6ft. 3in. He was an excellent goalkeeper, though while he was a member of the Derby County team in 1903 he had the doubtful honour of being the goalkeeper who was beaten, a record number of times in the F.A. Cup Final, for Bury beat Derby County by 6-0 at the Crystal Palace that year.

When he came to London to join the Fulham club he immediately established himself as a great favourite, and was exceedingly popular with the Fulham crowd. Although he failed to catch the eye of the selectors he was quite good enough to have appeared in international matches.

Right to the end he took a keen interest in football, and as recently as a fortnight ago he saw the match between Chelsea and Manchester City at Stamford Bridge. Jack Fryer had entered St. George's Hospital to undergo a minor abdominal operation.

HATS OFF TO WALES!

Now for the high-lights of the year.

It has been a Welsh year—a football miracle akin to the Huddersfield Town transformation of 1919-20 when, instead of losing their club to Leeds, they found themselves in the Cup Final and up in the First Division.

The Welsh decision to try mid-week international matches has suddenly turned to jubilation the sorrows of the Principality's F.A. And they are worthy Champions.

What is more, they have sent a message through the football camps that, at the time when new resolutions are being framed, is well worth reading.

It is this: Weight, doesn't win. Size isn't everything. Skill tells. Skill and cunning. The little men of Little Wales have played football of the highest class. Hats off to them.

GOODALL SET "A GRAND AND GLORIOUS EXAMPLE"

Willingham, Huddersfield Town's right half-back—here's a star on the horizon.

A Jimmy McMullan type of player. Sharp as a needle. But ever considering what he will do with the ball when he gets it, and doing it decisively. Too bad he couldn't take his England Cap when it was offered.

An ornament to the game, this outside left. A deadly player. A successor to Alan Morton, and a thorn in England's side just when we thought it had been removed!

While on the subject of Brentford let me explain what has happened to their wonderful reserve side, which has won the London Combination two years in succession. A young man named James was the centre half-back during their wonderful run—including 43 successive home wins. Now he is the recognised first team player. Brentford reserves have missed James, and are not getting so many goals because Ralph Allen is out of the side. This great goal-getter is recovering from an operation.

Joseph Devine, the Queen's Park Rangers captain, is evidently as good a sportsman as he is a player. When congratulated after the Rangers' great win in the Cup replay at New Brighton, he very candidly imparted the information that New Brighton played better football at Shepherd's Bush than the Rangers had done in the replay.

A London club recently sounded Notts County regarding Mills, their well-built full-back, but the fee required was £1250. That was thought to be too high. The fee does seem a bit high by comparison with the £250 Blackburn Rovers are believed to require for Elbert Jones, an international and one of the greatest stylists the game has ever known. Jones cannot get into the Rovers' first team, but he would command a regular place in many League sides.

It is not surprising that George Bond has got an extended run at outside-right in the Millwall team. He put up a very good show in an unexpected position and shared his part in the team's revival which brought a victory over Wolves Wanderers after a period of nearly three months without the Millwall players, having "winced" money included in their weekly pay envelope. Bond, a product of Redhill, is not an ultra scientist, but he has speed, courage, and some ability.

Chelsea have not had much given to them this season, but they recently presented an autographed ball to Clachnacuddin F.C. for a sale of work. It realised £120. Clachnacuddin is a Scottish junior club. You probably guessed that I hear very good accounts of a young Scottish inside-left who played for the Irish League against both the English and Scottish Leagues. He is Devan, of Watford, who is 22 years of age, stands 5ft. 8in. and weighs 11st. He is not in the Watford League side.

Newton, the former Fulham goal-scorer who is now with Reading, crashed into Gill, the big Orient keeper, during their game last Saturday. "Sorry, old man," said Newton. "I couldn't see, you for the sun." "Next time you dash in like that," grinned back Gill, "you won't see me for stars."

"AT HOME" TO BROWNIES

On Board The Aeneas

Captain J. Hatfield entertains Brownies on board T.S.S. "Aeneas." Hong Kong Brownies had a very pleasant time on board the "Aeneas" yesterday afternoon when Captain J. Hatfield entertained them to tea. Tea always seems to be the most popular item with the kids, but the lovely tea that was provided stimulated even the grown up appetites. By the side of each plate was placed a little surprise consisting of three postcards and a Souvenir Menu. After the "inner man" had been satisfied the children adjourned to play various games, the officers joining them to add zest and fun to the proceedings.

Every corner of the ship was closely examined as the guests were taken round and shown about. Buttery, bakery, hospital and even the beer store were not forgotten.

The Captain caused a great excitement by announcing to the Brownies that those who wished could enter for the essay competition describing their time on board. The best essay would receive the prize in three weeks time after Lady Southern had judged the competitions.

About 44 Brownies were present, and Lady Southern who had meant to be present was greatly disappointed on being prevented to come through illness. Among those present were Assistant Commissioner Mrs. Grist, District Commissioner Mrs. Merriots, Mrs. Wild, Miss Griffith and Miss Jacks.

AMERICAN AIR MAIL

Unexpected Disclosures in Washington

Washington, January 10.

Unexpected disclosures, involving the name of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh were made to-day before the special Senate Committee, which is investigating ocean and air mail contracts.

Testifying before the Committee this afternoon, Mr. D. M. Sheaffer, Pennsylvania Railroad official, said that the Trans-Continental Air Transport Co. not only paid Colonel Lindbergh U.S.$10,000 a year to become its adviser, but also made him a gift of 25,000 shares in the company. He said that these shares were worth U.S.$250,000.

According to the testimony of Mr. Sheaffer, it was generally understood at the time that the post of adviser would not interfere with the other activities of Colonel Lindbergh who has just returned to the United States following an air tour of Europe, North Africa and Latin America. The Senate Committee has been in almost continuous session for more than two months, delving into all angles of Government subsidies to transportation companies under the guise of mail contracts. The purpose is to discover if there have been any illegal proceedings in the past and to prepare a bill to Congress materially reducing the costs of ocean and air mail contracts—United Press.

THE F.A. CUP DRAW

London, January 15.

The draw for the fourth round of the F.A. Cup, to be played on January 27, was made to-day, and includes so many incomplete games that analysis is difficult.

London has been lucky, although in two matches London eleven's clash. Tottenham are at home to West Ham, and the Arsenal to Crystal Palace.

The full draw, as cabled by Reuter, follows: Millwall v. Leicester; Tottenham v. West Ham; Tranmere v. Liverpool or Fulham; Workington v. Preston; Hull v. Manchester C.; Manchester U. or Portsmouth v. Grimsby; Arsenal v. Palace; Birmingham v. Charlton; Bristol City or Derby v. Wolves; Burnley or Bury v. Swansea; Chesterfield or Villa v. Sunderland or Middlesbrough; Plymouth or Huddersfield v. Southampton or Northampton; Chelsea or West Brom. v. Notts F.; Stoke v. Blackpool; Brighton v. Bolton; Oldham v. Wednesday.

GOLF

Change in Championship Dates

(Special Air Mail Service.)

London, Dec. 27.

The following statement was issued recently by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club from St. Andrews:—

It has been represented to the championship committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club from different quarters that the dates of the national events for 1934, as announced, are no the most suitable. With a view to meeting the general convenience of all concerned the championship committee has decided that the dates be as follows:—

Walker Cup Match.—May 11 and 12.
Amateur Championship.—May 21.
Open Championship.—June 25.

The new date for the Walker Cup will necessitate a change in the date of the Royal St. George's Challenge Cup competition. The new date for the Walker Cup match, also produces a clash with the Ladies' Open Championship, arranged at Royal Portcawl from May 11.

INTERNATIONALIST TO TURN PROFESSIONAL

D. Randall Lewis, prominent member of the Ashburnham Golf Club, Carmarthenshire, is to become a professional, and he will take a paid post with the Llandilo Club early in the new year. Lewis, who is a native of Ashburnham, is a scratch golfer, and he won the Welsh Amateur Championship in 1928 and 1927 at Royal Portcawl and Tenby. He was runner-up in the following year at Harlech, and again in 1930. He has played for Wales against Ireland and Scotland in the amateur international matches, and twice he helped Ashburnham to win the Welsh Club Championship.

Mr. T. O'Connor (St. Patrick's Club).

Reserve:—Mr. R. Oldfield (St. Patrick's Club).

JAPANESE BUSY NEAR PEKING

Road to Yenching and Aerodrome

Chinese Press messages from Peiping state that the Japanese and Manchukuo troops, now in Eas. Chahar, are constructing an aerodrome at Hataying, Kuyuan. At the same time the Japanese are forcing the local Chinese inhabitants to build a motor highway from Hataying to Yenching. The Chahar authorities have reported the latest developments to the military authorities in Peiping.

About 3,000 of Liu Kuei-tang's troops, after having occupied Yungning, are gradually moving southward and reached the Ming tombs to the north-east of Changping, where they clashed with the troops under General Wan Fu-lin. In the afternoon of the same day Liu Kuei-tang's cavalry moved towards Tangshan to the north of Peiping. The Government troops under General Kuan Cheng-lin have been dispatched to check their advance.

Further reports state that Liu's troops passed through Kaoliang on the 2nd to march eastwards. They looted the city and the countryside, and apparently intended to invade Tungchow. The Government troops have received orders to make all preparations to check the activities of Liu's troops.

Fighting has occurred between Liu's troops and those under the command of Generals Shang Chen and Liu To-chuan, at Shunyi and a place 20 li west of Tungchow.

Later reports regarding the movements of Yiu Kuei-tang's troops show that they intend to proceed to south. Hopei or Honan. A portion of Liu's troops appeared at Wuchinghsien recently. Later the rebel troops also appeared at Antze. The Provincial authorities have ordered all troops in the province to check the movements of the troops in revolt. An armoured train stationed at Fengtai has been ordered to proceed to Wanchuang to protect the railway.

U.S. HOPES FOR JUMP IN TRADE

Prosperity Move For Asia Markets

(Special Air-Mail Service.)

London, Dec. 27.

America hopes that a big increase in her foreign trade will follow President Roosevelt's "silver money" decision.

That decision—which has just been announced—means that the United States Government will in future buy silver at 64 cents an ounce, which is 19 cents above the market price.

Further, the United States Mint is to coin 12,000,000 ounces of silver forthwith.

Asiatic countries like India and China, which are traditional users of silver, will now be able to do greatly increased trade with the United States.

It is expected (says an Exchange message) that Roosevelt's action, which follows his ratification of the silver agreement made at the World Economic Conference in London last summer—will be followed by Peru, Mexico, Canada and Australia.

Bigger U.S. Market.

This would increase the exchange value of the currencies of India, China, Mexico, Peru, and the South American countries generally by at least 30 per cent, and thus half the world will be able to buy more goods from the United States.

Roosevelt hopes to reap immediate political advantages to himself as well.

For the silver mining States in Western America will now enjoy a boom: and the spokesmen of those States will therefore support Roosevelt when Congress reassembles next month.

One London authority said to-day that the U.S. action should be of assistance to this country because the depression of silver currency had been one of the greatest blows to us in our Eastern markets.

A London dealer in silver expressed the view that there would be no "enormous" repercussions in London as a result of the steps in the U.S.A. It was not possible to say at this stage whether it would bring increased business to London in dealings in silver from the East.

INDIAN

General's Final Inspection

London, Dec. 19.
The passing-out inspection of 170 cadets was performed at Sandhurst to-day by General Sir Archibald Massingberd. It was notable for the fact that an Indian was present for the last time. Future cadets will enter the Indian Military Academy at Dehra Dun.First Steps Towards Final AbolitionA year having passed since the Emperor of Ethiopia undertook to press on with anti-slavery reform measures in Abyssinia and to bring slavery to an end within a period of 20 years, it is an appropriate time to consider what progress has been made.Some advance can be recorded writes Lord Noel-Buxton. A Slavery Department was established last August, and has made a good beginning. Its chief, the former Ethiopian Minister in Rome, has already shown that he means business. The personal support of the Emperor enables the department to carry on. As promised by him in 1932 the Department receives the reports on slavery forwarded by the British Consuls from the various British Consuls in Abyssinia. An Englishman, Mr. de Halpert, formerly adviser to the Ministry of the Interior, has been appointed as adviser to it.
In several provinces newly installed Governors are showing energy, notably in the great territory of Gojjam, where unsuccessful rebellion brought the hereditary kingdom to an end.RAIDS IN THE SUDANThe efforts of the new Slavery Department are concentrated at present mainly on preventing slave raids and the trade in slaves. The existence of raiding has, even in the last year, been proved by the transferring of slaves into British territory which have attracted so much public attention. One of the most significant features of the situation is the fact that some of the highest officials are concerned in these affairs. Slave children carried off from British territory have been found in the households of Ethiopian governors and other officials. After a raid in which women and children were carried off into slavery some of these children were traced to the households of Abyssinian delegates who, at the conference called to discuss the raid, had denied all knowledge of their whereabouts. One of the chiefs concerned in a recent raid into the Sudan was Sheikh Khojaili, husband of the notorious Sitt Amma, who actually established a slave depot in the Sudan through which 600 slave children were traversed as having passed. She was subsequently imprisoned, and is now in a Sudan gao.The revelation of raids both internal and external, should become more possible as the Emperor increases his authority over the subordinate chiefs. But at present the enslaving of new negroes is often the work of local garrisons which in certain districts are neither paid nor disciplined, but "live on the country." In the Maji country there are continuous attacks on the native tribes by the soldiery. In one such expedition last year large numbers of old men, women, and children were killed, five women and children being burnt alive when their villages were destroyed.RED SEA TRAFFICThe traditional process goes on by which the natives of certain tribes are reduced to the condition of serfs as a means of support for the soldiers, resulting sometimes in resistance by the natives and their consequent total enslavement.
Soldiers of the old school continue the practices to which they are accustomed in spite of new regulations.A number of slaves are smuggled across the Red Sea every year into Arabia. In some cases slaves are exported with passports issued by the Ethiopian Government, and pass as pilgrims until they are sold at Mecca. Others are moved in caravans through the desert from the Gulf of Tadjura in French Somalia to the Gulf of Aden. Others make the passage of large slave dhows across the Red Sea very difficult, but there is no such embargo on a trade from ports lying south of that sea. Most of the trade, however, is internal, and the existence of flourishing slave markets, often under the nose of the governor concerned, is unquestionable. This is especially true of the Maji and Sayo districts.Even when the slave-trader is arrested, the lot of his victims is often no better than before. The slaves and their captors are sometimes placed in the same prison while there disease often attacks both. When they are brought into court the slaves are at every possible disadvantage compared with the slaver. They are mere animals in his eyes and do not understand the language. The traders, on the other hand, have plenty of money for purposes of bribery and know the law. In these circumstances progress in the suppression of the slave traffic must depend on theattitude of the local governors.
Some of these are endeavouring to put down the trade in slaves, and definite improvement in this respect has been made in some areas.
But others are apathetic or hostile, and certain governors are directly involved in the slave trade themselves.THE FORCE OF PUBLICITYViewing the question of catching and trading in slaves as a whole, we can record that a measure of public opinion now supports reform. While it is a long time since the Emperor Menelik condemned the trade, it is to Haile Selassie that we must give credit for the change. His authority, reinforced by the suppression of rebellion, has at least spread a knowledge of the law. He has lately held a conference of slavery judges from all parts of the country, and a reformed administration is being set on foot in at least one province, which is intended to serve as a model.It is clear that the driving underground of the large-scale trade in slaves, or its reduction to the dimensions of smuggling and kidnapping of small groups, which has been achieved in some parts of the country, is a very much easier task than an attack on the fundamental problem of slavery which prescribes the emancipation of slaves on their owners' death and of children born to slave parents in recent years, slavery would, of course, die out in a comparatively short time. But the opposition to such measures would be tremendous, and at present the Emperor's decrees on the status of the slave are mainly honoured in the breach. An exceptional situation, however, has arisen in recent months in regard to conditions in Gojjam, where the Emperor ordered liberation on a large scale.The abolition of slavery in Ethiopia is bound to be a work which it will take some years to complete.
The recognition of this fact, however, is no reason for slackening the pressure brought to bear by public opinion on those responsible for the administration of the country. Without that pressure, and the moral support which it conveys, it would be much more difficult for the Emperor to give effect to his intentions in the direction of reform. It is to be hoped that the League of Nations permanent slavery commission, now at length established, aided by the British Foreign Office, will increasingly bring the force of publicity to bear.

PILGRIMItalian Band Of Monks For RomeThe "Nation" recently states that the Mahatle from the household of Her Majesty the Queen Aunt who was ordained a novice so as to join the Italian monk's band of pilgrims to Rome, has given up the robe just because he could not give up the habit of smoking.
He tried in every way to overcome his inclination for cigarettes, but failed, and hence did not consider it advisable to adhere to his resolution to take to the road with the other pilgrims.The Italian priest was sorry that such a trifling matter should interfere with the pilgrimage. However, those who wish to go with him have to be imbued with the courage to give up smoking and to be able to undergo the hardships of the road.
Some monks have requested the Italian monk to stay longer in Bangkok; but he refused because as an alien he has to leave after a month's residence, otherwise the Immigration Department would impose the regular fee.The Italian monk says that the Buddhists in Bangkok have shown great pity in their religion.
When he left Bangkok accompanied by over two hundred Burmese monks on the way to Benares in India the people spread mats and carpets along the route of progress while the presentation of food was more than their bowls could hold. There were some women who spread out their hair on the road for the monks to tread on. Owners of dispensaries made them liberal gifts of quinine, aspirin and other useful medicines, and some people shipped robes in advance by boat to Benares so that when they arrived they might have everything they needed.PRESIDENT

A HEALTHIER ITALY

Fewer Deaths From Tuberculosis

Rome, Jan. 16.
A remarkable improvement in the health of the Italian nation is revealed by the Under-Secretary for Home Affairs in his speech to the Senate to-day in the course of which he stated that the number of deaths from tuberculosis were as follows: 11,200 during the first quarter of 1932 to 9,600 during the same period last year.
The Under-Secretary informed the Senate that the Fascist institute for social welfare will in the next few years have 43 sanatoria with 18,000 beds at their disposal for tubercular patients. One hundred and five municipalities have been removed from the list of malaria infected areas during the past two years.—Transocean Kuo Min.

MORE UNREST IN CUBA

Sen. C. Hevia New President

Havana, January 16.
The political situation in Cuba has been much aggravated by the resignation of President Grau San Martin.
General Carlos Mendieta has been named as his successor.—Reuter.

Later.
Senor Carlos Hevia, the Secretary of Agriculture, has now accepted the Presidency.
The shooting which broke out round the Presidential Palace in the afternoon has ceased.—Reuter.

WRECK OF THE "ALBATROS"

Fine Work By French Life-Boat

Calais, Jan. 15.
With most commendable skill, the motor life-boat "Marshal Foch" saved all seven members of the crew of the sailing vessel "Albatros" which was wrecked by the violent hurricane now raging in the English Channel. Along the French coast huge trees have been torn up bodily by the roots and in some instances roofs have been ripped off and telephone and telegraph poles have been smashed like matchwood. The amount of actual damage done is considerable.—Transocean Kuo Min.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS MAROONED

London, January 16.
Severe gales during the past fortnight have prevented the relief of three lighthouse-keepers, one of whom was injured at the lonely Dhu Heartach Lighthouse, which is 15 miles off the Western coast of Scotland.
Yesterday the Northern lighthouse relief ship, Hesperus, succeeded in reaching the lighthouse and took off the marooned men. The injured keeper was conveyed to Oban Hospital.
His colleagues had been tending him on medical instructions wireless to the lighthouse.—British Wireless Service.

THE "MOUNTAIN OF FEAR"

German Climbers To Attempt Ascent

Augsburg, January 15.
German alpinists under the well known climber and scientist, Herr. Willy Merkel, aspire to win distinction by sending an all-German team to scale one of the highest peaks in the Himalayas early next spring. Plans disclosed on Monday show that a party of ten leave Germany at the end of February to attempt to scale "Naga Parbat," so-called "Mountain of Fear," 26,800 feet high, the world's seventh highest peak. The group is made up of scientific climbers many of whom have had considerable experience in mountain climbing.—Transocean Kuo Min.

12,000 DIVORCES IN POLAND

Warsaw January 15.
12,000 divorces granted in 1933 have been declared illegal. The whole Ecclesiastic Court including five orthodox Bishops have been forced to appear before the Chief Bench, to answer a charge of having derived a total amount of $100,000 from this source. The Polish penal code imposes as a maximum ten years imprisonment for conviction on such charges.—Transocean Kuo Min.

INVITATION TO GERMANY

Berlin, January 15.
The German Government has received an invitation from the League of Nations to participate in the present meetings. The points to be discussed will be the plebiscite in the Saar in 1935. It is learned from official quarters that Germany will not take part in the discussion, the reason being to avoid precedent for acknowledgment of the authority of the League of Nations.—Transocean Kuo Min.

CARDINAL BOURNE INDISPOSED

London, January 16.
Prayers for the recovery of Cardinal Bourne, Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster, who been seriously ill for some weeks, were said in Westminster Cathedral yesterday.—British Wireless Service.

AUSTRIAN ATHLETICS ARRESTED

Vienna, Jan. 15.
A mass meeting against the Dollfuss Government took place at the Austrian Spa "Bad Hall". The police arrested some of the athletes who have assembled here for the Austrian Ski Championship. The athletes who are highly disgusted with the mixing up of sports with politics protested against the new course in a demonstration which could only be dissolved by Heimwehr troops.—Transocean Kuo Min.

RUBBER RESTRICTION

The Hague, January 16.
The International Rubber Association will hold a meeting within a few days, at which it is expected that the British will be invited to attend to discuss the report of the Restriction Committee.
It is generally conceded that a definite solution is more remote owing to the difficulties which have arisen from the recent negotiations.—Reuter.

FEUCHTWANGER ON HIS EXILE

Plea For German-Jewish Refugees

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Dec. 27.
Dr. Lion Feuchtwanger, the novelist, was the chief speaker at a women's luncheon held at the Savoy Hotel recently in aid of resettlement of German-Jewish women and children in Great Britain and Palestine. The tickets for the simple meal were £10 each, and nearly 300 guests attended. The chairman, Mrs. Anthony de Rothschild, announced that £8,701 had already been raised towards the £25,000 required, and that all the expenses of the luncheon were being paid by an anonymous donor.

Dr. Feuchtwanger said that so far they had documentary evidence of 377 Jews having either been killed by the Nazis in Germany or having committed suicide in consequence of their ill-treatment by the Nazis. The punishment for those 377 deaths was, in all, four days of light imprisonment for one Württemberg S.A. man. He admitted that during the last few weeks there had been a lull in the use of physical violence against the Jews. The pressure of foreign opinion had persuaded the Nazis to alter their programme, in so far as now "they no longer kill the Jews, they merely do not let them live." It was the duty of the Jews abroad to work against the Nazis and their propaganda by every means at their disposal. It was as a good German himself that the speaker urged this course. "I was happy in Germany; it was ideal for my work," Dr. Feuchtwanger continued. "Now they have confiscated my house in Germany, have demolished my library, torn up my manuscripts, mangled the scientific material which I had collected, undoing the labours of many years. They even killed the harmless animals of my garden, my cats and tortoiseshells, and trampled down the flower beds. Now, I confess, I long for the air of Germany, its landscape, its people, its language, the tranquillity of my study, the books of my library. It is a bitter and difficult thing for me to work without all this. Yet I would not go back to Germany even if they guaranteed to restore to me life, property, and liberty. For it must be an inconceivable nightmare to a man whose heart is not entirely frozen to live in this country which they have turned into a horrible mixture of prison and military training ground."

PLIGHT OF CHILDREN
Hundreds of thousands of German Jews must be left to their fate, but was it not possible to save at least some of the children—those who were the most helpless and whose rescue was of the utmost importance for the future? The barbarian of the Third Reich struck with tenfold gravity at the tender, unformed souls of the children. In numerous German schools the Jewish children were made to sit on separate benches from the rest. They had to sing anti-Semitic songs and recite anti-Semitic slogans and verses. In some cases Jewish children were obliged to stand up in the presence of the assembled school and listen while they were told what scoundrels and traitors their fathers were. In many schools Jewish children were forbidden to participate in the common swimming lesson because physical contact with an inferior race would pollute the Aryan children.
In one big town there was a regulation providing gas masks for all children and organized drill in the event of gas attack; the Jewish children were excluded from these defensive measures. In one school milk was distributed regularly to the needy pupils, and a Jewish child was made to stand in line with the others holding an empty jug. When it came to this child's turn it was told loudly to "Go away. You are a Jew. You won't get any." This

Changing China

Autumn Quarter

A quarterly non-political review of life and conditions in China.

"... Changing China is an interesting and useful quarterly. The articles which it contains have been written in the form of letters by men and women of various ranks of life who are living in the interior of China. The reader gets a picture or rather a series of pictures of life in Modern China, and at the same time a resumé of the progress made in industrial development during the past quarter..."

The following is taken from the "TIMES" LITERARY SUPPLEMENT dated 19th October, 1933.

CHANGING CHINA. A Quarterly Non-Political Review of Life and Conditions in Modern China. Vol. I, No. 1 April, 1933, 128 pp. Vol. I, No. 2 July, 1933, 128 pp. 7 x 4 1/2. Hongkong Daily Press (53, Fleet Street, E.C.4.). Is. 6d. n. each.
In a preface, the editor explains that the purpose of this newly established quarterly is to keep a record of the progress of events in all parts of China and, by disseminating a fuller knowledge of the country's actual conditions and needs, to assist in the promotion of trade and a better understanding between East and West. To this end, qualified correspondents in every province have undertaken to supply reports, commentaries, and forecasts. The first two numbers contain several articles on interesting subjects—e.g., the industrial development of the Kuang provinces, the spread of Communism, the condition of the native cotton industry, and the Mind of Young China.

JAPAN TO SINGAPORE

Huge Airport For Osaka
A new international airport, costing approximately ¥ 10,000,000 will be established by the Japanese Air Transportation Co., the only civil aviation company in Japan, near Naruo between Osaka and Kobe. It was announced recently.
The airport, which will have facilities for both land and sea planes, was originally sponsored by Mr. Seibei Kawanishi, member of the board of directors of the company, and is being aided financially by bankers of Kansai (Osaka-Kobe-Kyoto) district. The War and Communications Ministries have also been urged to give financial support to the scheme.
Establishment of a regular air line between Osaka and Singapore is contemplated. The service may start when the airport is completed.

Jewish child was obliged to take its place in the line every day with its empty jug, so that every day the demonstration could be repeated.
The appeal was supported by Lady Violet Bonham Carter, Mrs. I. M. Sieff, Mr. Frederick Lonsdale, and Lady Erleigh. Lady Violet Bonham Carter said that this matter concerned not the Jewish community alone but all who believed in justice and our common humanity.
